TWO BORDER TOWNS SWEEP BY BIG FLOOD

Four Known Deaths in Nogales, Mexico, and Nogales, Arizona; Forty Missing

Cloudburst and Rain Carry Away Houses and Hotel, Say Reports

Nogales, Ariz., Aug. 7.—Four persons were known to have lost their lives, forty persons are missing, and the final death toll would total at least twenty-five following a torrential rain and flood which inundated the twin border cities shortly after midnight.

Bodies of three women had been found on the Mexican side of the line, and the body of a man was discovered near the Santa Rita bridge on the United States side. None were identified.

"Many houses were swept away," the Mexican police reported, "and forty persons are missing."

Surging walls of water hit the twin towns, tearing out brick and adobe houses in Nogales and Sonora, and filling International Street, the main thoroughfare which separates the towns, with five to six feet of swirling water.

One hotel and sixteen Mexican homes on the Sonora side were reported by the police there to have been swept away. They did not know how many persons had been in the hotel. A C. Villaseca, chief of police, said his officers reported having seen several bodies floating down the street.

KING RESIGNS AND BENNETT TAKES OFFICE

Conservative Ministers Sworn in With Usual Ceremony in Federal Capital; Retiring Liberal Premier and Incoming Premier Call at Government House.

BENNETT NEW PREMIER AND FINANCE HEAD

Guthrie Minister of Justice; Manion Is Minister of Railways

Ottawa, Aug. 7.—The King administration passed into history this afternoon and a new regime under the leadership of Hon. R. B. Bennett was ushered into office.

All the ancient ceremonies and observances which surround a change of government were meticulously performed, these entailing visits to Government House by the retiring Prime Minister, a call by him on Mr. Bennett and then a formal delay until Mr. Bennett himself had called on the Governor-General and had been sworn in.

At that hour Mr. King presented himself once more at Rideau Hall and offered his resignation, informing Viscount Willington Mr. Bennett would be able to form a government and advising the Governor-General to send for him. Fulfilling the requirements of the constitution that the King must not be left without advisers, the Governor-General did not at once accept the resignation. Instead, again pursuing the tradition that the King must be advised by the Prime Minister, he instructed Mr. King to see Mr. Bennett and request Mr. Bennett's attendance at Rideau Hall. Not until Mr. Bennett had proceeded to Government House and given the Governor-General the necessary assurance he had formed a government and could carry on did the Governor-General cause Mr. King to be notified his resignation had been accepted.

Returning from Rideau Hall about 3:15 p.m., Mr. King went to Mr. Bennett's office in the Parliament Buildings and there informed him of the situation. Mr. Bennett then drove to Rideau Hall, where he was sworn in as Prime Minister.

Hudson's Bay Company Workers and Friends Enjoy Annual Outing

Sports, Swimming and Contests Keep Party of Seven Hundred Busy at Deep Cove From Morning Till Till Night.

More than 350 employees of the Hudson's Bay Company and a nearly equal number of their relatives and friends are to-day carrying out of an of varying intensity, together with happy recollections of their ninth annual staff picnic and outing yesterday at Deep Cove.

Eleven buses of picknickers left the store at 9:30 o'clock in the morning and returned shortly after 7 o'clock in the evening. The trip was so successful that the Hudson's Bay Company Employees Association. From start to finish the many activities of the day were run off without a hitch and much credit is due to the various committees for the smoothness and efficiency of the arrangements.

LOTS OF ACTION
The grounds surrounding the Chalet were a busy picture throughout the day as the picknickers indulged in their own particular form of amusement. The perfect weather drew many to the cool waters of the cove. Soft-ball players lost no time in getting under way on the central diamond of the picnic grounds; the fine board tennis court saw plenty of action throughout the day; an attractive sports programme drew the entry of every athlete in the store.

CHOIR ENTERTAINS
The newly formed choir was heard by several hundred on the veranda of the main lodge. An obliging staff dispensed free pop, water melon, peanuts, ice cream and oranges to the athletes and spectators from time to time during the day.
The entire party got off to a good start at 9:30 o'clock sharp arriving at the picnic grounds by 10:15. Tables, tents, fires and other necessities to a comfortable picnic had already been attended to by the advance guard and the picknickers were able to start enjoying themselves. The day was a success—discharged from the buses several score of the more enthusiastic holiday makers immediately changed into bathing suits and left themselves to the tender mercies of Old Sol who favored them with his attentions for the rest of the day.

More... The diamond was soon a hive of activity with the "Shuffling Chairmen" successfully challenging the "Dirty Nine," alias the Butchers, to a special two inning game. Conservative spectators calculated that the Drivers had won by 40 to 2, as it took well over half an hour to dismiss the delivery men in the first inning. The "Baby Face" then tangled with the "House of David" who had grown or acquired hirsute appendage to fit the part. Considerable excitement was roused but activities were quickly cut short by the call to lunch which took all the spectators and a majority of the two teams from the field.

RETAIN CHAMPIONSHIP

Dainty box lunches were distributed to the crowd who afterwards lined up for ice-cream rations which were much appreciated. After lunch the sports programme proper got under way again and a number of exciting races were seen. Both last year's champions—Don Fish and Miss F. Butts—repeated their victories to capture the rest of the afternoon. Later the choir, newly organized under J. MacGuire who has been transferred from the Calgary store, proved a great success with an attractive programme before ten.
Immediately afterwards the sports prizes were distributed by Mrs. A. J.

Watson while a number of handsome cups were presented by Mr. Watson, president of the association and manager of the store.
The picknickers then piled into the waiting buses for the return trip which was made to the accompaniment of a series of vocal refrains of surprising volume.

THE ORGANIZERS
The following officers and members of the committees deserve great praise: A. J. Watson, president; J. S. Horne, vice-president; A. Eaton, vice-president; T. Wilkinson, secretary; V. M. Merryweather, treasurer; Misses Bowden, Dawson, Winkie, McKensie, Matthews and Rogers, G. Hibbert, G. McAdam, J. Grant, C. Nicholls, P. Shrimpton, W. Woodley, A. S. Woodard, A. D. Colman, O. C. Clark, J. A. Davidson, A. Haines, L. P. L. Hutchinson, W. Williamson, L. Baker, W. Kroeger, J. Hunter, S. Campbell, C. G. Costa, S. Davies and G. Wharf.

LONG SERVICE MEN
It is interesting to note that among those present were two wearers of the Hudson's Bay Co.'s long service medal, marking at least thirty years service with the company. These were G. Robson and A. Nicolson, both residents of Victoria.

WIDE MARKET IN BRITAIN FOR B.C. LUMBER

Hon. F. P. Burden Also Sees Great Opportunities For B.C. Box Manufacturers

Special to The Times

London, Aug. 7.—Hon. F. P. Burden, Minister of Lands of British Columbia, is returning to Victoria after a two month visit in Great Britain, where, among other things, he made a personal survey of the potential market for British Columbia lumber.
Before leaving London Mr. Burden told a Times representative he was convinced British Columbia lumbermen could increase their sales in the British market provided they made a determined and systematic effort to boost their goods and study the peculiar requirements in the British Isles. This was particularly true at the present time when many of the national newspapers, political leaders and a large proportion of the people at large were demanding a closer knit Empire and a development of Empire trade as one means to that end.

NEEDS STUDIED

"I am no expert in the timber business," said Mr. Burden before leaving London, "but I have made a fairly wide canvass while in Great Britain of the lumber situation. From that survey I am certain the buyers of the British Empire are ready to purchase British Columbia lumber provided the price is right and the cut in keeping with their particular requirements."
"Among others, I visited the purchasing departments of three of the railways. In every case they stated they were pleased with the timber we sent them. One of them has only recently placed a repeat order for British Columbia timber."
EVENNESS OF CUT
"I did find some criticism of British Columbia lumber on the ground that it lacks evenness of cut. The Baltic lumber, for instance, with which British Columbia lumber comes in competition, is very even—more so than our own. The Englishman wants his lumber like that, and we've got to find some way of giving it to him."
BOXES NEEDED
"It seems to me there must be a tremendous opportunity for our box manufacturers in the steadily increasing export of fruits of all kinds from South Africa. While in London I saw 30,000 crates of oranges come in a single ship and that week a further 220,000 crates were expected. The South African growers purchase their crates from the Baltic and Scandinavian countries. Why shouldn't they use Empire crates produced in British Columbia? I think this trade will be worth looking into. The question of distance is a serious one to overcome, but when such tremendous quantities are required the shipment of crates by boatloads becomes a commercial possibility, with a resultant reduction in cost of course, the problem of return cargo, but I should imagine that too could be arranged. While in Great Britain I obtained the standard measurements of these crates in order that our manufacturers may see just what is required."
The question of standardization considerably simplifies the problem as far as mass production is concerned. The South African growers, for instance, have standardized not only the size of the boxes, but even the color of them. We should study the color and try and sell them what they want.

LOWER GRADES

"There is another point in connection with our timber trade with Great Britain. At the present time the British buyer demands from us only the best cut off each log. He does not realize that in our lower grades we have lumber of his requirements. We should endeavor to have a few representative men of the British lumber industry visit us in order that they might see what we can produce on the Pacific Coast. I think some of our manufacturers would do well to reciprocate such a visit in order to inform themselves on what is required in the British market. There is a real desire in Great Britain at the present time for the stimulation of industry and trade within the Empire. The British buyer is no philanthropist, it is true, and buys in the best market. Nevertheless just now he is perhaps more friendly disposed toward Empire products than he has ever been. I think we should try and cash in on this friendly attitude by making a determined bid for our share of this market."

LONDON SEES TRADE REVIVAL DEPENDS ON COMMODITY PRICES

London, Aug. 6.—Financial experts in this market find it as yet impossible to express any confident view of the outlook for Europe's autumn trade. All of them admit that the revival depends very largely on the course of commodity values, in which direction no one is able to discover any sign of real recovery. Large surpluses of the leading commodities have still to be absorbed before values can be positively stabilized.

The president of the British Board of Trade, in reviewing the general position this week, found it unable to find out any promise of early improvement. He frankly stated his unwillingness to venture prediction as to the probable course of commodity prices in the near future. Meantime, the total number of unemployed workmen in Great Britain on July 14 was 1,959,900, which was 6,446 more than a week ago and 803,236 more than at this date last year.

Notwithstanding these uncertainties and in spite also of the gold movement, financial markets here are looking rather brighter. The troublesome liquidation due to considerably shrinking prices of stock values appears to have ceased, while the response given to one or two new loans has not been unfavorable.

It is admitted that, with the holiday season now close at hand, financial inactivity is likely to increase during the next month or two. Nevertheless, there is a feeling that current market prices represent something like bottom values unless general business is to take an unexpected turn for the worse. One or two prominent industrialists have been speaking more hopefully this week of trade prospects, while brokers and bankers, whose business it is to advise on securities markets, report the receipt of more inquiries from the investing public. The nature of these inquiries seems to indicate some spread of belief that a turn in the markets may not be far off.

MOTORISTS LOSE LIFE

Pasco, Wash., Aug. 7.—A. B. Lambert of Tulare, Cal., was crushed to death when his coupe overturned on a curve four miles west of Connel yesterday. His wife and nine-year-old son were not hurt. The Lamberts had been visiting in Spokane and were returning to California.

TWO BODIES RECOVERED

Winnipeg, Aug. 7.—The bodies of Mrs. C. J. Dries and E. E. Bennett, formerly of Saskatoon, who were drowned at Seven Sisters Falls last Sunday, were recovered yesterday. Bennett lost his life in attempting to save Mrs. Dries and a companion.

CONVENTION INVITED

Vancouver, Aug. 7.—The Union of Canadian Municipalities will be invited to hold its 1931 convention in Vancouver, the finance committee of the city council decided yesterday.

A new pocket magnifying glass is in the form of a pencil and can be retained in a pocket with a clip.

NOW SUGGESTED MACDONALD HAS FAILED IN AIM

Socialistic Order Lags in Britain, Williamstown, Mass.,
Institute Is Told

Williamstown, Mass., Aug. 7.—John Martin, a United States citizen born in England and former associate of Rt. Hon. Ramsay MacDonald, Labor Premier of Great Britain, in addressing the International Institute of Politics here yesterday evening charged the premier had failed in an attempt to establish any real socialistic order of society in the British Isles.

To the Russian and Italians in power to-day it is plain that life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness for all have not been attained by parliamentary methods of western democracy," he said. "The goal, and not the method by which it is reached, is the all-important matter to Communists and Fascists."

IMPOSSIBLE THROUGH PARLIAMENT

"As an old Socialist I am coming to the conclusion that if you admit the goal is the important matter, you must admit Lenin's method is superior to MacDonald's method. Parliamentary systems are absolutely impotent to establish a new order of society. MacDonald is setting nowhere in England. The German Socialists not nowhere. French Socialists not nowhere in an attempt to establish a socialistic order of society."

"You will say you do not desire it. MacDonald does not say so, nor Briand, nor Millerand. If you grant the Socialistic order of society is superior to the Capitalistic order of society, then you must look carefully at Lenin's challenge, which is that this order of society can be approached only through the repudiation of parliamentary democracy and the establishment of a dictatorship of the proletariat—a large party in itself which implies an infusion of a democratic spirit."

In the new forms of dictatorship, it must be admitted there was a blend of democracy, Mr. Martin declared. The Russian Communist party, he said, had granted the equality of women in government and industry more fully than the western democracies.

Record Trans-U.S. Flight Is Made

Los Angeles, Aug. 7.—Frank M. Hawks, who began a trans-United States plane flight from Curtin Field, New York, at 8 a.m. E.S.T. yesterday, landed at the Municipal Airport here at 4:50:43 p.m. P.S.T.

Hawks spent fourteen hours, fifty minutes and forty-two seconds en route, and stopped five times to refuel his Travelair plane.

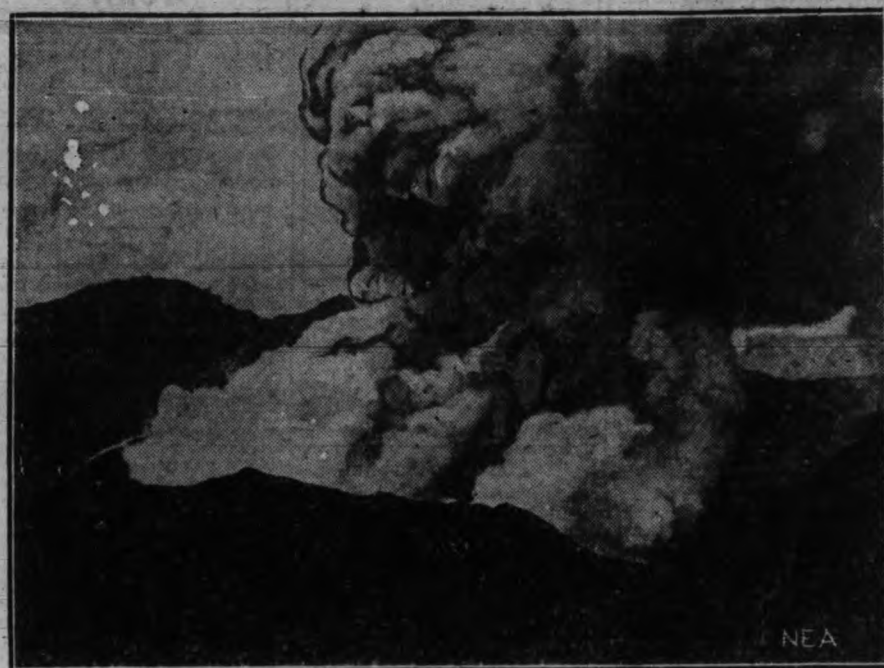

There had been no transcontinental speed flight exactly comparable to the one made yesterday, but Hawks clipped three hours, fifty-two minutes and eleven seconds off the eighteen hours, forty-two minutes, fifty-four seconds record Rescue Turner made on a non-stop east-west crossing of the U.S. last May 27.

Hawks, in addition to holding the record for the fastest east-west crossing of the U.S., ever made, holds the nonstop east-west record of ten hours, ten minutes and thirty-two seconds. Hawks stopped at Columbus, Ohio; St. Louis; Wichita; Kansas; Albuquerque, N.M., and Kingman, Ariz.

WORKER CAUSES DISTURBANCE

The Pas, Man., Aug. 7.—Police had to be called to the Grey Run's Hospital here yesterday when an unidentified construction worker ran amuck. Brought down from Churchill, the man threw hospital attendants out of his ward and barricaded the door. Police forced entry and the man was placed in a straight jacket. He is unable to speak English.

VESUVIUS IN ERUPTION BEFORE QUAKE

Smoke and fire ominously belching from the cone of historic Mount Vesuvius, as pictured above, gave sinister warning of the earthquake which was to rock south-central Italy. This photo, taken shortly before the disastrous temblors which cost many hundreds of lives, shows the great volcano in eruption. Increased activity within the crater since the quake has caused alarm among residents of nearby towns.

Big Dairy Merger Is To Control 94 Per Cent Vancouver Milk Supply

Vancouver, Aug. 7.—Merger of eleven of Vancouver's largest dairies is almost complete.

They control ninety-four per cent of Vancouver's milk supply.

The merger proposes to effect economies in distribution that will continue in effect Vancouver's milk prices, which are lower than in any other city of its class.

The directors of the Fraser Valley dairies have also approved the merger, said the president and general manager, William J. Park. The directors are meeting with the twenty-two local dairies of the dairy organization for the purpose of securing the approval of the shareholders. The first meeting is being held to-night, at Chilliwack.

Mr. Park said: "The farmer producing milk cannot accept a lower price and continue to produce. The distributor, as represented by these dairies, must raise present prices if he is to continue in business under the present system of duplication. The only alternative is a merger which will effect economies in distribution."

In discussing the various factors which go into the cost of producing milk on the Lower Mainland, Mr. Park points out that the cost of dairies in British Columbia is fifty to one hundred per cent higher than in other parts of Canada.

HIGHER COSTS

The cost of clearing and draining entails large capital expenditures, and the necessity of importing feed and the long freight haul entailed is also a large factor in increasing prices. Mr. Park states that it is a well known fact that local labor costs are considerably higher. He points out that the manufacturing costs of Eastern dairy products, butter, cheese, condensed milk, etc., with low labor costs and the low freight rates, enable eastern dairymen to dump their surplus in British Columbia's market with disastrous results to local producers.

Mr. Park states that the average price for the past year paid to British Columbia dairymen per pound butter fat is 59 1/2 cents, and that it is a certainty that they will be compelled to accept even less for the current year. Mr. Park points out that only fifty per cent of the production on the Lower Mainland is sold in fluid form. The remaining fifty per cent is manufactured at a loss of approximately twenty per cent below what would be received if the entire production were sold in fluid form.

Spain's cork forests are estimated to cover about 637,500 acres of land.

LABORITES AND SENATE SPLIT IN AUSTRALIA

Canberra, Australia, Aug. 7.—The Senate and the House of Representatives have come to loggerheads over the Labor Government's Arbitration Bill, dealing with the federal system of settling industrial disputes.

The Senate introduced amendments which yesterday drew sharp remarks from Hon. J. A. Beasley, the minister in charge of the bill. The government had received a definite mandate from the country on this question and the Senate's amendments conflicted with the government's principles, he said. His motion to reject the amendments was carried by thirty-six votes to twenty-two.

U.S. VETERANS VISIT WINNIPEG

Winnipeg, Aug. 7.—Two thousand members of the American Legion from the Minnesota State Convention at Crookston invaded Winnipeg last night. It was a goodwill invasion, and the city was in holiday attire in honor of the visitors who, in picturesque uniforms and to the roll of drum corps, marched through the principal streets amid cheering thousands.

The first ceremony of the two-day visit took place at the Cenotaph on the Mall, where the Legionnaires deposited a wreath. Later the visitors attended special entertainments arranged for their benefit, and many visited the Canadian Legion Club rooms.

Boucher Wins Yamaska Recount

Sorel, Que., Aug. 7.—Alme Boucher, Federal Liberal candidate, has been declared elected in Yamaska County. He obtained a majority of two votes in the general election over his Conservative opponent, T. Comtois. It was reported yesterday following a recount of the ballots.

Boucher has held the seat since 1921. The standing in Quebec therefore is: Liberals, 40; Conservatives, 24; Independent, 1. Following Yamaska's switch to the Liberal side the standing of the parties in the new House of Commons is: Conservatives, 137; Liberals, 88; United Farmers, 10; Progressives, 2; Liberal-Progressives, 3; Labor, 3; Independents, 2. Total 243.

OLD LOCOMOTIVE SEEN BY MANY AT VANCOUVER FAIR

Vancouver, Aug. 7.—Curly, a tiny, forty-foot-long wood-burning locomotive, no longer than the cab and tender of a modern giant of the rails, was the central figure in a dedication ceremony at the opening of the twenty-first annual Canada Pacific Exhibition here yesterday, when the historic engine was dedicated to the Vancouver exhibition board by C. A. Cottrell, general superintendent of the British Columbia district of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Veteran of more than fifty years' service and a link with the stirring days of early railway building in British Columbia, the faithful old engine was built somewhere in the eastern United States in the 1870's. It worked on construction of a short railway, and in 1879 and 1878 was with Count de Lesseps in the brilliant but unsuccessful effort of the French to put through the Panama Canal.

The old locomotive came to British Columbia in 1881 and from then until 1885 worked on construction of the C.P.R. main line between Kamloops and the old Pacific terminus of Port Moody. It derived its name from the nickname of a curly-haired engineer who first drove it in British Columbia. Mr. Cottrell explained.

In 1890, the locomotive found another job in the logging business with the B.C. Mills & Timber Co., being abandoned about 1910. Last winter the old relic was taken to the local C.P.R. shops, cleaned, repaired and painted, and presented by the Canadian Pacific to the exhibition board as a display piece at the exhibition grounds.

Canada's Claim To Far Northern Regions Clear

New York, Aug. 7.—Taking cognizance of the discussion over claims to Arctic and Antarctic regions as set forth at the annual conference of the International Institute of Politics at Williamstown, Mass., by Dean F. E. Corbett of McGill University, and others, the New York Times yesterday said:

"There can scarcely be a 'clash over claims.'"

Discussing the work Canada does in policing and settling the northern regions, The Times said:

"The work Canada does is all in the line of following up discovery according to international law. How could she be challenged or disturbed by any nation claiming title but not anticipating her system of organization of some kind of government?"

TWO CHILDREN DROWNED

Clifford, Sask., Aug. 7.—Irene Acker and her brother, Dale, seven, drowned in a pond near their home Wednesday afternoon when they stepped into a hole in water over their depth. Neither was able to swim and other members of the family, bathing in the pond at the same time, were helpless, as they could not swim. The two were children of Otto Acker, a farmer living four miles from Orkney.

"BUILD R.C. PAYROLLS"

A Farm Child Restored

A mother who lives on a farm raised her baby on Pacific Milk. "Can you imagine a farmer's child brought up on canned milk? This one was," she writes, "she was raised on Pacific Milk. At four weeks old she did not seem to be growing at all. We tried almost everything. Finally a neighbor lady told me to give my baby Pacific Milk and now she is the strongest and healthiest child in our family."

The letter is long, interesting, and we are very glad to get it.

AN URGENT MATTER

IT IS URGENT IN THE INTERESTS OF this province that the government at Ottawa immediately make some reassuring announcement regarding its attitude towards the Canada-Australia trade treaty. There is an impression in Australia that the Bennett administration is hostile to the treaty and that this country in the recent election decided in favor of its cancellation. It is true that the present prime minister and many of his supporters on the platform and in the press strongly criticized the treaty, but there were others prominent in the councils of the party who declared themselves in favor of it.

The Times is informed that important orders affecting one of the largest industries of this province have been held up in Australia because of the impression to which we have referred. This is a very serious matter and one which should engage the immediate attention of the authorities at Ottawa.

It is reported that Hon. H. H. Stevens of Vancouver is to be Minister of Trade and Commerce in the new administration. During the election campaign Mr. Stevens declared that he was not hostile to the treaty but that he favored improving and expanding it. As the chief beneficiary of this trade agreement is British Columbia, which Mr. Stevens will probably represent in the cabinet, we are entitled to expect that he will do everything within his power at once to preserve for some of the most vital industries of the province the important growing market in Australia. Moreover, Mr. Stevens should interpret the result of the election in this province, particularly in the progressive centres of the mainland, as a mandate to him to fight for the maintenance of the treaty.

COSTS TOO MUCH

ACCORDING TO THE PETERBORO Examiner a general election in Canada costs six times as much per voter as a presidential election in the United States, yet in the republic there is a widespread demand for a radical reform in this respect. It is estimated that the Hoover-Smith campaign cost the voters of the United States twenty-three cents per head, which is three cents higher than was expected. A writer in MacLean's Magazine estimates the cost to the government of Canada of the recent election at $2,000,000, while the cost of the political parties in Canada was $7,000,000, the total thus being $9,000,000. This works out at something less than a dollar per capita of the total population while, of course, it would be much higher than that on the basis of the voting population.

Elections cost too much in Canada. In fact they probably cost more in proportion to population in the Dominion than anywhere else in the world. Nor is there any other activity which involves so great a waste of money, wind and energy as a political campaign. Half of this could be avoided and the elector could vote at least as intelligently as he or she does now. They probably would vote more intelligently because if there were less solicitation there would be less fog to obscure the chief issues.

All electors should need are clear statements of the record and policies of the contending parties and candidates, and it ought to be possible to present these promptly without spending $9,000,000. Nor is this large expenditure at all complimentary to the intelligence of the voters. It implies that they have the mentality of a flock of sheep, to be driven and coaxed back and forth by innumerable public meetings, broadcasts, cartoons, billboard displays, oceans of newspaper propaganda, and personal canvassing, the latter of which especially is about the most useless electioneering activity of the lot. It is true electors in the mass do not like to overwork themselves in studying the issues of a campaign, and many of them prefer to be guided by the thinking of their ancestors in the days when people ate without forks and thought the world was flat, but even at that they are not as deficient in mentality and industry as the cost of a general election nowadays implies.

Cheaper elections in Canada undoubtedly would force the electors to do their own thinking—which would be a good thing for both them and the country—and as less fog would be raised voters would see the issues more clearly and give a sounder verdict than they are able to give now.

SCOTLAND YARD'S 'SHADOW PATROL'

SCOTLAND YARD HAS DECIDED THAT the manners of the average motorist in and around London need improving, and it has now been decided that the speed maniac, the "sudden stopper," the "armless wonder" who fails to obey signal stops and turns, and the smoke belcher who would rather burn oil than gasoline, shall receive official attention. A novel idea has been adopted to this end. There have now appeared on the streets of London a number of unofficial looking police cars containing a constable, driver and an assistant armed with a paper pad and a well-sharpened pencil. The method followed is to cruise about the streets and highways on the lookout for careless drivers.

Having spotted a victim the police car follows at a respectable distance, and may continue to do so for many miles without disclosing its true mission. For every offense against road etiquette or traffic by-laws the motorist is given one black mark. When the constable's sheet contains a sufficient number to make it appear imposing he steps on the gas and politely requests the motorist who is being trailed to stop.

He then presents the victim with the foolscap sheet on which appears a complete record of his offenses during the past five or ten miles. These are read over in a slow and impressive official voice ending with a request that the motorist exercise greater circumspection in his driving in future. No prosecution is instituted unless the infringements noted are serious. The main object of the scheme is to induce motorists themselves to drive carefully and with the consideration for the other fellow.

But woe betide the driver who persists in his wrongdoing after his first warning!

HE LOVED HIS FELLOW MAN

THE SIDELINES OF LIFE HAVE HELD much adventure in their day. We speak of the sidelines which are found along the silver ribbons of steel-blue tracks where vagabonds cluster around a fire to tell their yarns of other days . . . better days . . . watching all the while for the swing of a yellow light around the bend which will give them another chance to ride the rods and wander on.

The death of James Eads How, "king of the hoboes," again focuses the light on these everlasting wanderers. How, educated, distinguished gentleman, had no need of joining up with jobless wayfarers. An intense interest in the welfare of transient men made him seek their comradeship. He gave freely of his time and money in order to better their conditions. He slipped into their meetings and tried to be of the "gang."

It was a difficult task. He was a rich man. That he lived as they lived did not matter so much. He did not have to do it. They did. But they respected him for his courage and generosity. They even grew to love him. But never quite as one of themselves.

How was too close to the wandering trail, the Romany road, to see it in a sweeping perspective, perhaps. But he was near enough to feel its heart throbbing through the worn blue shirt and shabby coat it wore. He tried to do good as he passed along the way.

His way may have been too visionary, to idealistic for our machine-organized age. But it had something that we are apt to lose, as we deal with hearts in the same large-scale manner that we dig coal and manufacture nails.

It had the element of the personal. Certainly, he was human and filled with compassion for his fellow beings whose lot he tried to better.

OUR INVISIBLE RULER

LEST WE BECOME TOO PROUD OF ourselves, let us reflect just a moment and consider how puny we really are.

Man has made many advances. He has flown the oceans, built instruments that carry the human voice around the world, probed the mysteries of the stars, made machines that will do the work of a million slaves and accomplished many other things.

But we are still powerless in the face of a far greater power.

Italy's great earthquake, dealing widespread death and destruction, demonstrates that in the hands of the forces of nature we are as helpless as children, despite all the glorious advances that science and education have made. Something utterly beyond our control may rule our fates and our destinies, and possibly our lives.

In the pattern of the universe, our world is a mere speck. When the forces that lie behind it all express themselves we realize then how weak and helpless we really are.

STILL SELLING

A SURVEY OF THE GREAT VOLUME of new books that make their appearance annually is apt to be a little bit discouraging. Many fine and notable books are produced, of course; but a great deal of the most popular fiction is mere trash, unfit for consideration by an adult mind.

However, there is a brighter side to it. The head of a big publishing house points out that the classics which his firm prints enjoy a sale of 1,000,000 a year; and he remarks:

"New books are given at least ninety-nine per cent of the publicity of the advertising, of the sales promotion effort. Yet, in spite of all this we find that old Shakespeare and many of his friends go serenely along outlasting ninety per cent of the new books year after year."

A New York bookseller, he says, reports that the classical books most in demand are Shakespeare's "Tragedies," "David Copperfield," Shakespeare's "Comedies," "Don Quixote," Dostoevsky's "The Idiot" and Plato's "Republic," in the order named.

The general level of intelligence of the reading public is not quite as low as the popular fiction might make one believe. There is still a big market for good stuff.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

BRITISH WOMEN WIN TRIUMPHS
The Calgary Herald

Following closely on the magnificent exploits of Miss Amy Johnson in making a solo flight from England to Australia in a small machine, and of Miss Winnifred Brown in winning the recent air derby against the best aviator in Great Britain, Miss Marjorie Foster has won the King's prize at Bletley.

These are spectacular achievements and indicative to the world that members of the fair sex are quite able to hold their own in the field of gallant adventure. Scarcely had the acclaim over Miss Johnson's great feat subsided somewhat than another woman comes along and wins the premier rifle test of the Empire. It is the first time the feat has ever been accomplished. Miss Foster displayed unshakable nerve and won the trophy on the last shot.

PEACEFUL PING-PONG
The Springfield Republican

Ping-pong is found by a New York insurance company to be the safest of sports, and indeed it may seem surprising that it should have been the cause of even three mishaps. By comparison playing with children, which caused eighty-one injuries, is a sport for dare-devils.

A THOUGHT

Every man's work shall be made manifest. . . . Long life is denied us; let us therefore do something to show that we have lived. . . . Cicero.

Loose Ends

A mighty calculation comes from Ottawa—a pretty sentiment from Kansas—a strange account from England—and a terrifying report from Munich.

By H. B. W.

THE RESTLESS statisticians of the Ottawa Bureau of Statistics have just finished an agonizing calculation to prove that if all the wealth of Canada were equally divided among all the people, each of us would have $2,996. Around this fact men of different estates and conditions may weave many interesting speculations. Students of world economics will find that Canadians are extraordinarily wealthy as nations go. Experts will have a jolly time figuring out how the $2,996 is invested. What strikes an ignorant person most about these figures, however, is just how we get along so well in Canada with only $2,996 each. No man who had that amount for capital could possibly live on it, for at interest of five per cent it would bring him, if his figures are no more inaccurate than usual, only $149.80 a year. Apparently he will probably complain, too, that as per cent per annum on our capital as a nation, which is more than most of us can do as individuals.

EVEN AT that, the average man's first reaction to the new statistics will be to wish that he had his share in cold cash at this moment, rather than leaving it locked up in vast industries, railways, farms and what-not. He will probably complain, too, that most people haven't got $2,996 to their names, the distribution of our wealth is grossly unfair, forgetting that if all of us had our per capita proportion to-day most of us would go out and squander it forthwith, until within a little space it would be back in the hands of a few again, as it is now. On the whole, while it is difficult to imagine any system more absurd than our present one, it is more difficult to see how a more sensible one could be installed, human nature being what it is. Besides, after a week-end at our lake I don't feel equal to the effort of explaining how our $2,996 should be handled. As far as I am concerned, it is safer for the moment with whoever has it.

OUT IN Spanish these days they are reaping the oats and the wheat in those rolling fields where the oak trees stand in little groups like islands in a yellow sea. There is something about grain fields newly reaped that warms the coldest heart, takes a man back to old and fundamental things. Our literature is full of such references, but nowhere do I recollect anything more compelling than a tiny snatch written by Marion Elliot, a young girl of Kansas, and reprinted by William Allen White in his famous Empire Gazette. If you have been out to Spanish lately you will understand her when she says:

THE SEA is tumultuous always, lashing in fury at its confines, restless even in its quiet days. And the mountains are desolate with storm. But in the fields of wheat, when the wind takes them, there is peace. Slowly they move, ripple upon ripple of green changing to gold. Untroubled, without haste. What will be the harvest of the twilight? The harvest will be. Summer, winter and another spring will be. Here the gold of the wheat turns to warm rose in the light of the lowering sun. There the waves break against a fence, noiselessly as green surf might break in a dream. Here a cloud shadow passes, sinister as a premonition of evil days. But what will be the harvest? And the wheat flows endlessly, inevitably toward fruition.

THE ORGANIZED lunacy of this age has lately taken a new turn. Instead of flag-pole sitting we now have tree sitting, a more comfortable but equally idiotic sport. People all over America are perched upon trees trying to out-perch one another and create a record, at the same time demonstrating that they have not yet reached a state of evolution which entitled them to come down from the trees in the first place. It is not to this aspect of the matter that I would direct your present attention, however. What is most interesting about your modern flag-pole sitting and tree perching is its decline in vigor and physical endurance from the more manly sports of our ancestors. This is demonstrated in a record unearthed by an English paper, which chronicles the following heroic feat:

IN FEBRUARY, 1818, when a London baker, for a wager of £50, undertook to stand on one leg for twelve hours at a stretch. The test took place in a public room with a crowd of spectators, the baker taking up his stand on his right leg at a clock in the afternoon. The betting was heavily against him, for it seemed impossible anyone could remain in such an attitude for any length of time, but hour after hour passed slowly by and still he stood there immovable.

At the end of eight hours, seeing that the baker was in dire agony, the challenger offered to declare him winner of half the stake, but though perspiration was running off him like rain the plucky record-breaker declared he would win all or nothing. Betting was then fifty to one against him, but he held on and did actually remain on the one leg for three minutes beyond the prescribed twelve hours. He had then to be placed in a chair and carried home, but seems to have suffered no permanent ill-effects from his extraordinary feat.

NEXT TIME you are tempted to sit on a flag-pole or perch on a tree remember this gallant London baker.

and desist, for you can never hope to equal him.

IN MUNICH University a learned professor, who might have been more usefully employed, has been carrying on experiments which will move anglers the world over to the very depths of their beings. The old theory that fish could see but could not hear, this great savant has discovered, is all wrong. He has proved, on the contrary, that fish can hear and distinguish "such varied sounds as those of organ, guitar and plain tin whistle." The result of these discoveries will add just one more terror to our civilization. Fishermen and their endless tales of the big one that got away are bad enough as it is. The woods and streams of our country will be intolerable indeed when they abandon the quiet and respectable worm, and the decent fly, to lure their helpless prey with the clamor of organs, guitars and plain tin whistles.

CORDOVA BAY REGATTA

To the Editor:—As one who for several years has enjoyed holidaying at Cordova Bay, I desire to express appreciation for the splendid letter which appeared in Wednesday's Times, protesting against the holding of part of the annual regatta on Sunday.

Those who have arranged the programme have doubtless gone to considerable trouble in doing so. For that

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO TO-DAY

THE VICTORIA DAILY TIMES, AUGUST 7, 1905

The decision of Mr. Justice Duff on the application of Capital City Canning and Packing Company for an injunction restraining the Anglo B.C. Company from operating one of its traps until the action recently instituted is heard, has set salmon trappers seriously thinking.

The annual regatta of the North Pacific Association of Amateur Oarsmen will be held next Friday and Saturday under the auspices of the James Bay Athletic Association. All the arrangements are complete, and one of the most successful aquatic meets ever held in the northwest is anticipated.

Weather forecast—Victoria and vicinity—Light to moderate winds, fine and warm to-day and Tuesday.

W. F. Bullen of the B.C. Marine Railway, is in Scotland. In a letter to his brother in this city he reports having purchased a new diving gear, also extra large pumps for the use of the B.C. Salvage Company.

A road devoid of cobble stones, level, and winding through scenery of a fascinating character, is the thoroughfare which has the greatest attractions for the automobile tourist. It is the kind of road which the G.P.R. party traveled over during the greater part of their trip between Duncan and Union Bay.

Without a doubt the British Columbia League match played on Saturday afternoon between the Victoria and Vancouver lacrosse teams was the finest exhibition of the Canadian national game seen on local grounds this season.

There is no question that the Gorge has become Victoria's premier pleasure resort. Yesterday launch, vehicle and tram carried thousands to this beautiful resort.

reason, one dislikes to offer any criticism. In this case, however, there is too much involved to allow the matter to go unnoticed. It would seem that to have at least one day in hand could not have been seriously considered what their action would mean, when they decided on this new departure. Evidently, a week in hand would be quite satisfactory. At least in so far as the writer and his family are concerned, we have heard of no request for a change. Personally, I have not taken any active part in this annual event, but with others, have greatly appreciated the efforts of those who have. What a pity to spoil what hitherto has been so much enjoyed by the entire community.

The fact that golf tournaments, etc., have been arranged for Sundays can scarcely be offered as sufficient justification for committing the entire community to a desecration of the Lord's Day. More especially, as a large number of children will be compelled to witness all that is done. We shall hope that those in charge will yet see the wisdom of keeping to the original plan, and that the many distractions of week days.

To the Editor:—Please allow me through the medium of The Times to express my thanks to all those who gave me their support in the recent election in the Nanaimo Federal riding. ## B.C. HENS AT LONDON SHOW ARE LEADERS

Special to The Times
London, Aug. 7.—According to Prof. A. B. Lloyd, head of the poultry department of the University of British Columbia, the British Columbia exhibit at the World's Poultry Congress in London takes the palm among the birds of the sixty-one nations which are exhibiting.

When seen by a Times representative, Prof. Lloyd was enthusiastic over the fine showing of the British Columbia poultry. "I consider the Canadian exhibit one of the best in the whole show," he said, "and of the Canadian exhibit the British Columbia leghorns, white wyandottes and rocks are the best of the lot, both as regards type and records of performance."

"We have had many inquiries by breeders of many countries and I am certain the sale of British Columbia breeding stock will receive a distinct fillip as a result of our exhibit at the Congress. Some of the birds have already been purchased and several purchasers have approached me with a view to importing in the future large numbers of breeding stock from our British Columbia poultry farms."

"I feel we should be proud of the fine appearance of our birds at their long 6,000-mile journey from the Pacific Coast. They arrived in England in fine fettle and in appearance were as fresh as they would be at the time of their departure."

Without a doubt the British Columbia League match played on Saturday afternoon between the Victoria and Vancouver lacrosse teams was the finest exhibition of the Canadian national game seen on local grounds this season.

There is no question that the Gorge has become Victoria's premier pleasure resort. Yesterday launch, vehicle and tram carried thousands to this beautiful resort.

Victoria, New Westminster or Vancouver fairs."

One of the main attractions of the magnificent Canadian exhibit at the Congress was an illuminated display of outstanding hens and cocks. At regular intervals there arise from the heart of a great horizontal map of Canada two enormous eggs. These part in the middle, disclosing four pens containing magnificent specimens of hens and cocks of various breeds. For this purpose many of the birds from Alan George's farm at Albert Head were chosen, a distinct tribute to the excellence of the birds raised on Vancouver Island.

HARVESTERS' WAGES

An eight-hour day at a minimum of fifty cents an hour is urged. Workers on combine harvesters to get 25 cents additional an hour.

LT. GOVERNOR HOST TO BLIND AT GARDEN FETE

Sightless Victorians Guests at Government House Yesterday Afternoon

M. C. Robinson Tells Gathering of Canadian National Institute's Fine Work

The first social engagement of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Miss Mackenzie on their return from their tour of the Peace River district, assumed a philanthropic nature when yesterday afternoon they entertained at a garden party at Government House in honor of the blind of Victoria. About twenty sightless guests were present, together with a number of other guests interested in the welfare of the blind, and during the afternoon occasion was taken to acquaint the assembled company with the measures which are being taken in this province to care for those who have lost their sight.

RECEIVED ON LAWN His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Miss Mackenzie, the latter in a smart frock of black Canton crepe with vestee of chartreuse green and hat to match, received their guests before the summer house. Capt. W. H. Molson and Mr. A. M. D. Fairbairn were in attendance. Tea was served and during the afternoon the band of the Victoria Fire Department, under the leadership of A. Prescott, gave a delightful programme of Gilbert and Sullivan selections.

Among the guests were Mrs. S. F. Toimie, Mayor Ansonby, Mr. Fred Landberg, who with Sir Frank B. B. Macdonald constitutes the local representation on the Canadian National Institute for the Blind; Mr. R. P. Butchart, one of the directors of the institute; Mrs. Butchart, Mr. G. S. McTavish and Mr. C. Hensley, who with Mr. Landberg, constituted the committee in charge of the local end of the campaign last autumn; Mrs. McTavish, Mrs. Hensley, Dr. and Mrs. Fred Bell (Vancouver), Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Robinson, Mr. F. J. Crowhurst, Miss Agnew, Mr. Bell, Mr. Ward (Douglas Lake), Mrs. B. A. Fitzsimons, and Miss B. G. Stark, a teacher of the blind in Victoria.

WORK IS DESCRIBED M. C. Robinson, a blinded war veteran and superintendent of the British Columbia branch of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, sketched the efforts which are being made in this province towards helping the blind to become self-supporting. As the result of last November's campaign in the province about $95,000 has been raised. Since then property had been purchased on the corner of Spruce and Broadway Streets, Vancouver, and a building which is to be opened in October or November was now nearing completion for the housing of the various activities planned.

CONCESSIONS GRANTED Concerning the placing of blind men and women in occupations, Mr. Robinson stated that throughout the province about fifteen concession stands were being operated at the present time by blind men, and the number was steadily increasing. The teaching of basketry work in all its branches was one of the important activities which the institute intended to incorporate in the new building. He also reviewed the work done in finding positions for the sightless in other industrial and commercial concerns. A resident teacher had been established in Victoria for instruction in Braille basket-making and similar work. Arrangements were also being made for one or two concession stands in this city, said Mr. Robinson. A. H. Crocker, who lost his sight after serving twenty years service as an engineer, supplemented the thanks tendered by Mr. Robinson to His Honor and Miss Mackenzie for their kindly hospitality, and also paid tribute to the work of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind.

Lodge Meeting—The business meeting of the Daughters of England, Lodge Princess Alexandra No. 18, will be held this evening in the Sons of England hall at 8 o'clock. Members are asked to attend.

Kotex deodorizes completely, by a safe, sure method. And goes on deodorizing as long as it is worn. What a priceless comfort, especially in summer!

Fashioned to fit

There are other important ways in which Kotex contributes to your summer comfort. Kotex is skilfully shaped, to fit without a bulge or revealing outline. Wear your lightest frocks every single day.

After wearing, Kotex is disposed of easily. There's no unpleasant laundering, ever.

Kotex is not made of cotton, but of a remarkable substance known as Cellucotton (not cotton) absorbent wadding. This is the substance used by Canada's leading hospitals, because of its marked superiorities as an absorbent.

OLD TIME R.R. ENGINEER TELLS OF BIG CHANGE

Walker Says Benefits From Sargon Have Far Exceeded His Expectation

Perhaps one of the best known railroad men in the Dominion is James H. Walker, 6339 Prince Albert St., Vancouver. Starting his railroad career in 1879 he was familiarly known to many of the pioneers as "Old Snap." He was an engineer from 1882 to 1925, when he was pensioned. He is 71 years old, a member of the Masons, an honorary life member of the Brotherhood of Railroad Engineers and has hundreds of friends, not only in Vancouver, but in Calgary and Olean, where he formerly lived for many years. In telling recently of the remarkable benefits he received from Sargon he said:

"I wish I could tell every sufferer in the Dominion what Sargon did for me, and I hope this statement will be published in every place in the Dominion where I have friends. "On the whole my health was mighty good until about 1905, when I began to feel myself slipping. My strength almost played out on me completely. I got so my food didn't taste good and the worst kind of dizzy spells worried me. Sometimes it seemed like some sort of an electric machine was buzzing and flashing before my eyes, and I'd reel over right where I was, and I'd be afraid to walk on the streets alone. A rash broke out on my head and wrists, and sometimes my feet and ankles would swell until I couldn't lace my boots. None of the medicines and treatments I took helped me, but before I'd finished the first bottle of Sargon I knew I had the right medicine. Now I'm built up and strengthened from head to foot. I eat hearty, have gained weight and practically every one of my ailments has been overcome. I never even hoped to get the wonderful benefit Sargon has given me.

"I used to be continually taking strong purgatives, but Sargon Pills ended by constipation without gripping or nauseating me, and my bowels are regulated better than in years. I never miss a chance to tell others what this wonderful treatment has done for me." Sargon may be obtained in Victoria and Vancouver from all Old Drug Stores; in New Westminster from the Beval Drug Co., and in Esquimalt from Fulmer's Drug Stores. (Adv.)

Plan Career as Movie Star for Evelyn Laye

The airplane tragedy which cost the lives of four members of Britain's nobility brought the title of Marquis of Dufferin and Ava to the honey-mooning young Earl of Ava, pictured at the right. He was on a wedding tour with his bride, the former Miss Maureen Guinness, left, when he received the news that the former Marquis had been killed in the recent crash of a biplane at Meopham, England, and that the title would descend to him.

Mrs. Edged will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope forwarded to this office will bring a personal reply.

IS YOUR CHILD AFRAID TO DEFEND HIMSELF?

Mothers are very self-conscious about their individual problems. They fear that a discussion in this column of Bill's habit of running home crying will immediately identify him as that cry-baby Smith boy.

Not so. Every city and every neighborhood has children who can't fight their own battles but run home to tell mother that Charlie threw a stick or Barbara scratched. The very similarity of these incidents offers a perfect shelter for any child. There are Bills and Barbaras and Charlies everywhere, and they are distressingly and monotonously alike.

NO NAMES USED
This outburst is brought on by the podscript on an unsigned letter which says: "I would not want anyone to know where this question came from." Mothers may sign their letters with the comfortable assurance that names won't be used, and that most of the problems aren't sufficiently unique to identify them to even their next door neighbors.

Mrs. G.M.B.'s particular plaint is that "in this day of androgynous the child who is of non-combative disposition fares badly. We have a boy of four who won't take his own part and consequently he comes home crying with his eyes, ears and nose filled with sand. We don't want him to be a cry-baby, so we brush him off and send him back only to have the performance repeated shortly. It almost makes us

DIVORCED FOR SECOND TIME

Wealthy Seattle Woman and Young Husband Fail to Agree

Seattle, Aug. 7.—A "second honeymoon" failed to establish harmony between Mrs. Lena Finley, wealthy Seattle woman, and Edward J. Finley, picture salesman, twenty years her junior, and the marital affairs of the couple crashed on the divorce court rocks again yesterday.

The first divorce, obtained some months ago brought forth sensational charges on the part of Mrs. Finley against her husband, but their difficulties were patched up and the matrimonial ship launched again, only to be wrecked a second time.

We just couldn't make it go," Mrs. Finley told the judge. "Somehow I never seemed the same."

Finley did not contest the divorce and was represented in court only by his attorney. He received a property settlement, the details of which were not made public.

U.S. NAVAL MEN ATTRACTED BY CITY'S CHARMS

Attractions of the city of Victoria and Vancouver sailors have been called to the attention of officers of the United States battle fleet now in Seattle, by the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau and have been received with considerable interest by the naval men.

In a letter to George J. Warren, publicity commissioner here, the commander in chief of the unit now in the Sound City, has expressed his thanks for the information and has assured the local body that Victoria's charms will draw several of his officers and men here in future years.

GIRL ACCUSES PRIEST DURING CHURCH SERVICE

Lays Baby on Altar During Sermon on Morals; Suspended Sentence

Sudbury, Ont., Aug. 7.—Suspended sentence was given Ophie Linkovitch, who was convicted by Magistrate J. S. Kescock in police court yesterday of disturbing a religious service at the Ukrainian Catholic Church Sunday morning, July 27.

As the priest was preaching a sermon on the "Morals of the People," witnesses said, the girl walked to the front of the church and said:

"Pardon me, brothers and sisters, this child is his," and she placed her eight-month-old baby on the altar rail.

"Why did you go to the church like that?" asked J. M. Cooper, counsel for the accused, as she testified in court.

"This baby was his and it was the only way I could get him," was the reply.

"I tried other ways for a long time. The time when he said that about innocent people being talked about, that's the time I walked up."

Father Barton was preaching when the girl created the disturbance.

IS BETROTHED

Washington society has evinced intense interest in the news of the engagement of Miss Katherine Lowman, daughter of Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Seymour Lowman, to William Jardine, former Secretary of Agriculture and recently appointed United States Minister to Egypt. The engagement was announced in Washington, D.C., where Miss Lowman has been a society favorite.

traveling the bride donned a tailored suit of deep blue blue wool with which she wore a tuck-in blouse of egg-shell satin. Her hat was of matching blue stitched silk and her shoes of brown tones. The groom is manager of the Victoria road branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce.

"Ordinary soaps may cause serious irritation"

Every skin needs the deep cleansing which only vegetable oils of palm and olive can give. These cosmetic oils have been famous as beautifiers since Cleopatra's day.

"ORDINARY soaps," says Madame Cavalieri, "may cause serious irritation. If you have the mistaken notion that soap may harm your skin, it is because you are not using the right soap. Next time try Palmolive. I heartily advise it... to keep skin smooth and lovely."

Lina Cavalieri's expert advice
In her sumptuous salon on the Avenue Victor Emmanuel III, Lina Cavalieri advises her fastidious patrons to follow a simple home beauty treatment with a soap blended of palm and olive oils.

"Before retiring," says Madame Cavalieri, "wash with Palmolive. Then I advise the use of my camphorated jelly No. 5, which should be applied over the face and neck. When slightly dried a little powder should be added and the preparation may remain on all night. In the morning, cleanse the skin thoroughly with Palmolive Soap and then use my 'Loxon Onctueux' No. 7—afterwards applying my Cream No. 2. By following this simple treatment you will keep that schoolgirl complexion."

Beware of irritation
So many soaps irritate while they cleanse. They are apt to roughen the texture of the skin and spoil its delicate coloring. Palmolive is a pure vegetable oil soap. Its color, its odor, its very feeling is that of nature's great cosmetic oils. It cleanses safely, beautifies easily.

Lina Cavalieri is one of a great international group of beauty specialists who have discovered the facts about Palmolive for themselves, and who now tell their patrons to use this soap in preference to any other. Today, there are over 23,720 such experts. Think of that! Thousands and thousands of those whose advice is sought and paid for by women in many countries, voluntarily proclaim Palmolive best. You will like Palmolive. You will be using it soon for the bath, too, since it costs even less than quite ordinary soaps. Follow Madame Cavalieri's advice. Begin this very day.

Mainlanders Lead Triple Competition In City Bowling Tournament

THE SPORTS MIRROR

"BIG BILL" TILDEN, so far, has played in forty-one Davis Cup matches, covering a period of eleven years. He's won thirty-four and lost only seven. As that includes both singles and doubles, it is a remarkably consistent record. He is still in condition to keep up this fine showing which is another remarkable thing. Generally, stars of past times, if they keep up their tennis, show good form but weaken physically in the final sets. Not so Tilden. He's a great argument for keeping in good shape.

Jim Corbett thinks Young Stribling is just about the cream of the present day heavyweights. Well, it is quite true that Stribling can fight, duck, clinch, wrestle, counter-punch and display all the ring generalship gathered from years of experience. And he is cool in the ring, too. In fact, he was so cool against Berenbach that he shook all over and was as pale as a new sheet.

Nevertheless, Stribling has the physique and the ability to become world's champion by conquering one thing in himself—and that is the tendency to unconsciously tie up and pull in his horns when he meets a dangerous man. He had Pa Stribling coaching him to avoid a knockout at all costs so long that his aggressiveness melts away when he confronts a really great fighter. Perhaps his victory over hard-punching Von Porat, who has never landed his punch on a first-class man, and Phil Scott shows that he is getting away from his nervous breakdown complex.

Bobby Jones has come out in defence of the stymie, saying that the player with the stymie and nerve and most resource will bear up better under the handicap of a stymie than a less worthy player. In this connection we remember with interest that Doc Willing, finalist in the 1929 U.S. Amateur, and Jess Sweetser, former British amateur and U.S. Amateur champ, focused the only stymies we saw focused in the 1929 amateur event. Willing was trying to put all his stymies in because the greens were curvy—but they weren't curvy enough. Jess tried to jump him, and the ball jumped right over the hole. And those two are two of the toughest, steadiest fighters that ever stepped on a golf course.

Certain parties are thinking of sending Bill Tilden a special coin which he is to flip in future years to determine whether or not he will play on the Davis Cup team. It is guaranteed to show heads the first time so that the general public and the newspaper boys will not be kept in suspense while he toys with a refusal. In fact, it is heads on both sides.

O'Goody says the boys who predicted Brooklyn would crack were O.K. They have cracked simply everybody on the chin.

Bob Pearce, the Australian champion sculler arrived in Hamilton, Ont., the other day to get in trim for the coming British Empire Games. O'Goody couldn't be suppressed until he had unburdened himself of the question, "What's he going to have, a little scull practice?"

Primo Carnera met George Cook the other night in Cleveland. But that wasn't the first one Cooked up for Primo. In fact, too many Cooks spoil the broth.

The Philadelphia Nationals made 30 runs in two games and lost both games. A pitcher is a very valuable person.

In St. Louis an undertaker meets the umpires at the train and takes them to and from the ball park every day in his big limousine. Empire Bill McGowan asked if there was any hint of a dirty suggestion in that kind of hospitality.

As far as that's concerned, the ball park in St. Louis, we understand, is like a cemetery anyway, and if it weren't for the umpires there wouldn't be any crowd.

The French seem to be determined to keep the Davis Cup. Just as determined, it appears, as America is to keep the British Open championship.

Smith—Yes, we used to live on the ground floor, and I'd clean forgotten we'd moved!

N. Vancouver Team Has Margin of Four Points Over C.P.R.

Sixteen Teams Enter Second Round of Play; Exciting Finishes Seen in Second-round Matches of Men's Singles With W. J. Coo Scoring Another Win; Semi-finals of Rink Competitions This Afternoon.

Rolling a total of fifty-nine points in three games of thirteen ends each, W. Peters, North Vancouver, skipped his team to a victory which placed the visitors in the lead of the triple matches bowled yesterday morning and afternoon at Beacon Hill and Burnside in the Capital City bowling tournament.

The North Vancouver trio was easily the pick of the entries in this competition, and will probably be the team to beat in the final round. Trailing the leaders by four points, with a total of fifty-five, R. W. Wilson of the C.P.R. Club brought his team home in second-place position.

HAGEN FAILS TO QUALIFY FOR TOURNEY

Famous Golfer Will Not Be Starter in Pro Championship in September

First Time He Has Been Out in His Career; Horton Smith Leads Qualifiers

New York, Aug. 7.—For the first time in his long golf career, Walter Hagen will not be among those competing when the professional golfers tee off at Fresh Meadows Club, Flushing, in September in quest of the pro championship.

The five-time holder of the professional title failed to qualify yesterday, when young Horton Smith, Hagen's protégé, led the field over the Cherry Valley Club course. Smith scored a 139 for the thirty-six holes, but Hagen took 140 four strokes short of the mark needed to get within the honored ten, which will represent the Metropolitan district.

Other stars out, other well-known stars as Mike Brady, Long Jim Barnes, "Bobby" Cruikshank, and Willie Macfarlane failed to qualify. In addition to Smith, the qualifying group includes Johnny Farrell, Gene Sarazen, Bill Mehlhorn, Billy Burke, Pat Cirkell, Jimmy Hines, John Golden, Whiffy Cox and Jack Forrester.

BERG STILL IS FAVORITE

English Scrapper 8 to 5 Choice to Defeat Kid Chocolate To-night

New York, Aug. 7.—Kid Chocolate, the ebony flash of the featherweights, meets his second major rival in a brief but sensational ring career, when he meets Jackie (Kid) Berg, the English perpetual motion lightweight, at the Polo Grounds to-night.

Both of the fighters have a large following and despite the fact that the "Kid" will be giving away seven or more pounds, he will have plenty of supporters. Berg, considered the outstanding contender for Al Singer's lightweight title, is an 8 to 5 favorite. Incidentally, Chocolate has a decision over Singer in the Cuban's other major fight.

The "Kid" is a genuine featherweight, and probably will score a knockout to win in 1934. The bout is not scheduled as a titular affair as the New York Boxing Commission does not recognize the junior lightweight title which Berg won from Mushy Callahan in London.

BUICKS WILL MEET FORDS

Crucial Garage League Game Called For 6 o'Clock To-night in Athletic Park

Buick's play-off chances will be hanging in the balance at the Royal Athletic Park when the Garage League second placers tangle with the past-setting Fords in the most crucial game of the year. The game is called for 6 o'clock, and "Gotton" Brynjolfsson will call the balls and strikes. To-night's contest is the replay of a previous tied game.

Doc Todd, leading twirler of the league, will be on the mound for the leaders, while Walter Battison, south-paw, will get the mound assignment for the Buicks.

Chinese Swimming Star Enters For C.N.R. Marathon

Toronto, Aug. 6.—Norman Ross, Chicago long distance swimmer, has forwarded his entry for the Canadian National Exhibition world's champion marathon, thus setting at rest rumors he would not be a competitor this year.

FAVORED PAIR ARE BEATEN

Nordstrom and Langlie in Upset Tennis Win Over Harrison and Hoogs

Seattle, Aug. 7.—Entrance to the quarter finals was the objective of men and women racquet wielders in the Washington State tennis tournament here to-day. One of the most important matches of the day was scheduled between Bob Hoogs, Eugene, and Leon De Tienne, Seattle, defending champion. De Tienne is playing his first competition matches of the season in the west. His first opponent was another interesting match between Ray Casey and Laurion Driscoll, San Francisco, defending doubles champions, and Howard Langlie and Lloyd Nordstrom, Seattle. The two Seattle boys yesterday surprised even their most ardent boosters when they conquered Bradshaw Harrison, Tacoma, and Bob Hoogs, Eugene, Oregon, in the finals of the Pacific Northwest sectional meet. As a result of their victory Langlie and Nordstrom will represent the Pacific Northwest at the National Inter-sectional tournament at Forest Hills, N.Y. later this month.

Grover Alexander Is Up and Around

Chicago, Aug. 7.—Grover Cleveland Alexander, now the engine of minor league baseball managers, was up and around to-day apparently recovered from his recent illness.

The former National League pitcher said he had been ill since last Friday and did not care to discuss new opportunities to get back into baseball.

Results of singles played yesterday evening were: Rankin 2, Tupman 15. C. Collinge (Vic.) 15, F. Byne (Bur.) 10.

VICTORIA NET PLAYERS WILL PLAY JERICHO

Interclub Series Will Be Resumed Sunday With Friendly Match Here

Marjorie Leeming and John Edwards Will Be Leading Players For Victoria

After a lay off of a few years Victoria Lawn Tennis Club and the Jericho Tennis Club will resume their interclub matches by meeting here Sunday when two teams of twelve players will engage in friendly competition. The Vancouver club is sending over its strongest team while the local club will be represented by a formidable side.

Marjorie Leeming will lead the local women, while John Edwards will be the lead-off player for the men. He will probably meet Orie Ryall in the feature singles. Marjorie Leeming will oppose Marie McNab, who recently beat Mrs. Gross in the Western Canada championships.

The Jericho Club have three of British Columbia's ranking players in their ranks, and the Victoria players will have a chance to see what they can do against such competition.

THE TEAMS
Besides Ryall, the visitors will have George Spurling, ranked fourth; Harold McLean, ranked sixth. Other players are Baldwin, Bramhall and Dove. The ladies will be Marie McNab, Elsie Porter, who finished as the runner-up at Dunsmuir last year, Mrs. Jolley and Mrs. Gregor.

The local side will be Marjorie Leeming, Hope Leeming, Mona Miller, Mrs. John Edwards, Helen Campbell, John Edwards, Marsh Gordon, Gerald Cunningham, Don Campbell, Eric McCullum and Ross Hocking.

Fine Racing Seen In Opening Card At Colwood Track

Seven-race Card Run Off Yesterday Before Good Sized Crowd; Four Long Shots Come Home With Public Choices Copping Last Three Races; Dossier Captures Third Race to Pay $26.90, Day's Longest Price; Zeek Leading Rider With Three Winners.

Horse racing made its debut on Island tracks yesterday afternoon with a splendid seven-race programme at the Colwood mile track. A fairly large crowd was in attendance and after the first race betting was fairly brisk, although not quite as heavy as in previous years. Close finishes were the order in the majority of the races and with perfect weather conditions the opening day was a successful start for the seven-day meet.

A peculiar feature of the meet was the fact that in the first four events not a single favorite managed to bet under the wire, and just when everybody was prepared to see a real long-shot day, the public choices romped home in the last three events.

Jockey Zeek carried off the riding honors for the first day, booting home three riders. He was aboard Logan O., winner of the first race, Belle Somers who captured the second event, and Rapida, who secured the laurels in the sixth. Swift rode two winners during the afternoon, both his mounts, In The Eye and Dossier being long shots.

George Drumheller's Logan O., starting at better than eight to one, copped the first event by a head from Oregon Mist, which made a gallant attempt to snatch victory in the stretch. These two were the chief of the field although Maurice Mulcahy chased them closely throughout. Aden II showed a brief burst of speed at the start but never reached the leaders, while Dora Rock threw its jockey when running strongly soon after the field left the barrier. Jean Navelle, odds on choice in the betting, was out of the money in fourth position.

TWO FOR ZEEK
Jockey Zeek slipped his second one in a row across by galloping home with Belle Somers in the second. Smith's Bee Somers shot out in front of the field in this event, opening up a six-length lead, but found the last furlong too tiring and was beaten out a length by the winner. The field entry, with some Dora, was installed a 3 to 1 favorite, and some Dora captured third place after showing for a half the back stretch. Edwill D., carrying top weight, made a game bid for the show, but failed to hold off the favorite.

LONG SHOT HOME
The succession of outsiders continued in the third race, when Dossier, a 12 to 1 shot, finished a game duel with Dora, who was the favorite. A length decision. Swift was aboard. The winner returned $26.90 straight and over $37 across the board. Joe De Ford gave Coeur de Lion a capable ride and four out a thrilling battle with the winner, only to lose out in the last sixteenth. Wikiup Blossom was an easy third.

Jockey Marshall, after his spill in the first race, did not ride again during the day, although he was not badly hurt. Swift also made it a double event for himself by booting In The Eye home to a thrilling win in the fourth. After leading the first ten one up from the start, where the winner overtook both. Honeythistle was the public choice.

THIRD STRAIGHT
Leo Bancroft's Rapida hung up her third straight victory by capturing the sixth by a margin of four lengths, making it Jockey Zeek's third winner of the day. Purty Shot, closing rapidly at the finish after trailing the leaders, took the place, while Mimsie, after leading the field for half the distance, dropped to the third slot.

Sporting Vein, second choice in the seventh, found the going to her liking, and won easily after taking the lead at the half in the mile and sixteen event. Mad Boy finished strongly to take the place money from the rapidly tiring Frank Gallor, who was the favorite.

slight dog-leg over a water hazard. Both had beautiful drives, Held almost reaching the green. The defending champion was eight feet away on his chip and trying for a three, rimmed the cup. Stuart only needed a half to win, but he clinched the verdict by sinking his putt for birdie three.

Jack Cameron, who accounted for Alex. Weir, the only western Canadian remaining in the title hunt, played a brilliant game, and so did Weir. They started out in the afternoon all square. Cameron played a steady game to win by two and one.

It looked in the morning as if nineteen-year-old Russell of Toronto was going to give the veteran Sandy Somerville of London a real tussle. Russell had Sandy down two at one time, and they finished the first eighteen with Somerville but one up. However, in the afternoon the London Hunt Club player had things all his own way.

DAY'S BEST SCORE
The best score of the day was made by Frank Connolly of Detroit, who defeated S. S. Merritt of Oshawa, three and two. Connolly only needed a three under par, and he overcame a three hole lead held by Merritt at the end of the eighteenth.

GALAXY OF STARS WILL SEEK TITLES

Class of Canadian Athletes to Compete in Canadian Track and Field Meet

Percy Williams, Following Victory Yesterday, Favored to Win Sprints

Canadian Press
Toronto, Ont., Aug. 7.—Canada's track and field stars, in larger numbers than ever before, have been drawn here for competition Saturday. More than 200 of the renowned from coast to coast will be ready to toe the marks in the official track and field contests for Dominion titles. The official entry list is to be issued to-day by the Amateur Athletic Union.

And when this galaxy of stars is assembled on the field at Varsity Stadium, one slight, modest figure among them will be the centre of admiring eyes—Percy Williams of Vancouver, Olympic sprint champion of 1928.

"Percy Perry" running with all the natural grace that is his, streaked over a grass course yesterday to do the 100 yards in 9 3-5 seconds. He finished comfortably in front of his closest Canadian sprint rivals, and thereby gave much cheer to the thousands of Canadians who are hoping he will make a clean sweep of the sprinting events at the British Empire games.

The occasion was an invitation dash during the Canadian police athletic championship. When they saw Williams defeat a good field in workmanlike fashion, the big crowd forgot he was supposed to have a bad leg in one of his legs; that he had stepped off a Transcanada train only twenty-four hours previously, and that he had been beaten by Eddie Tolan of Michigan not long before.

LEG IS ALL-RIGHT
Percy said afterwards he felt all right; his leg had not bothered him a bit. He was never hard-pressed, and as a grass track is slower than the regular hard-sprint track, experts who saw him run believed he was at the very peak of his form.

Johnny Patterson of Hamilton, who is no mean sprinter, finished a good yard behind Williams, and Napoleon Boudreau, the dashing policeman from Montreal, finished third. Ralph Adams of Hamilton, present Canadian sprint champion, and Ralph Warren of Vancouver were also-rans.

Williams is now confidently expected to annex sprinting honors of the British Empire games, despite the formidable contention from overseas. His victory in the Canadian championships is taken as a matter of course.

Jokers Even Up Amateur Ball Series

Stickney In Great Mound Performance To Turn Back Elks

Last Year's Senior League Champions Take Second Game of Play-off Series by 11 to 4 Count; Elks Use Steele and Dangerfield in Effort to Halt Scoring Spree; Leo Holden and Tommy Bowden Crash Out Home Runs; Third and Deciding Game on Friday.

Collecting twelve hits, including four for extra bases, off the combined offerings of Wade Steele and Jimmy Dangerfield, Jokers put themselves right back in the fight for the championship of the Victoria Senior Amateur Baseball League, by downing the Elks 11 to 4 yesterday evening at the Royal Athletic Park, in the second of their three-game series, the winner to enter the finals against the Sons of Canada.

In the first game played on Monday night the Elks checked in with a 9 to 2 victory.

The third and deciding game will be played on Friday night and a keen battle is expected. With so much at stake the teams will fight their hardest for a win, and it would be a difficult task to pick the winner.

Another bumper crowd was in attendance yesterday evening and thoroughly enjoyed the exhibition.

ELKS OFF FORM

The Elks failed to show the same form as in the first game, five errors being chalked up against them. On the other hand the Jokers were right on their toes and, although two bobbles crept into their play, they gave Stickney, on the mound, fine support. The little southpaw turned in his best performance of the season, allowing the Elks nine hits and striking out four.

Steele started on the mound for the Jokers, but was pulled in the sixth in favor of Dangerfield who finished the game. The Jokers collected ten hits off Steele, which accounted for a like number of runs, while Dangerfield was nicked for two hits and three runs.

The Jokers started the scoring in the first inning when Down walked and scored when McKenzie let Holden's fast grounder go between his legs. The Elks tied up the count in the second inning, Tommy Bowden lifting the ball over the centre field fence.

In the third inning the Elks had a bit of tough luck. Stickney, the first batter up, was given a life when Webster lost Morgan's throw from third in the sun, and the batter advanced to second base. This break seemed to demoralize the Elks, and before they had retired the side three runs filtered across the plate. In the next inning Webster lost another throw from third in the sun and in this frame the Jokers drove in another couple of markers.

HOLDEN'S HOMER
The Elks bunched two hits off Stickney in the sixth to score a lone run. In their half of the inning the Jokers hit the ball out of the lot with one man on base.

The Jokers finished their scoring spree in the seventh by pushing home three more runners to sew up the game.

Batting honors for the evening went to Leo Holden who crashed out a home run, a double and three singles in five times at bat.

The box score follows:

Shields Springs Sensational Win Over Bill Tilden

Southampton, N.Y., Aug. 7.—Frank Shields, youthful New York star, sprang a sensational upset today by defeating Big Bill Tilden in the Meadow Club's invitation tennis tournament, 6-1, 3-6, 6-1. Shields, nineteen-year-old school boy, who ranks No. 12 on the national list to Tilden's No. 1, scored his surprising conquest in clean-cut fashion in the quarter final round of the tournament.

Tilden, only two days off the boat from Europe, made a belated entry into the singles competition yesterday. He won his first two matches but was hard pressed to beat J. Gilbert Hall in three sets...

W. G. Warren Wins Trapshooting Title With Splendid Score

Yorklyn, Del., Aug. 7.—Dropping only four targets in his string of 400, Walter G. Warren, Chicago, led a field of forty-eight trap shooters yesterday with a score of 400 out of 500 in the world marathon trap shooting championship over the Yorklyn Gun Club traps.

Warren, dethroned Mark Arie, Champaign, Ill., who won the 500-target event last year with 492 out of 500.

Brooklyn Robins Beat Pirates and Gain On Champion Cubs

Robins Open Western Jaunt With 7 to 4 Victory as Chicago Goes Under Before St. Louis Cardinals; Washington Senators Cut Into Athletics' Lead by Win Over Champions; Yankees Open Lengthy Home Stay With Win Over Boston; Detroit Tigers Win Sixth Straight.

Pennants are won on the road where the defenders of hometown citadels, sometimes with little to gain and about as much to lose, take special delight in knocking over those who are going somewhere.

Thus Brooklyn has a happy augury in the first victory of their western jaunt, a 7 to 4 conquest of Pittsburgh in the opening of the Pirate series yesterday. More important, perhaps, the flying start had its material advantage, for the St. Louis Cardinals rose to swat the Chicago Cubs and add to the lead of the Robins, now three and a half games in front of the league champions of 1929.

HUSTLERS WIN WHEN GIBSON HITS HOMER

Hits For Circuit With Two Aboard in Ninth to Defeat Thistles 14 to 11

Winners Even Up Series to Determine Victoria District Softball Championship

Eddie Gibson grabbed the spotlight for himself with a vengeance yesterday evening at the Central Park when his homer with two men on in the ninth gave the Hustlers, "B" section winners, a 14 to 11 victory over Saanich Thistles, "A" division champions in the play-off for the Victoria and District Softball League championship.

By their victory the Hustlers evened the series, and made a third game necessary. This will be played at Central Park Friday evening. Thistles started well and had piled up a commanding 9 to 3 lead after the first six innings, but Hustlers rallied strongly with defeat staring them in the face and scored 11 runs in the last three frames to eke out the decision.

Rawnsley started for the winners, but was yanked in the eighth in favor of Critchley, who stemmed the tide of base hits. Bill Putman went the route for the suburbanites, but received poor support from his infield. Chuck Bowden and Steve Dunc hit homers for the losers, while Gibson slapped one for the winners. Bob Whyte and Edgar Berde umpired, and the score by innings follows:

Hustlers..... 10 10 10 34-14
Saanich..... 0 11 12 31-11
The teams:
Hustlers—McGee, Gibson, Robertson, Johnson, Simpson, Godel, Ard, Critchley, Rawnsley and Lewis.
Saanich—Moody, Harper, Bowden, Essler, Purdy, Putman, Farquhar, Viggers and Dunc.

A feature of the meet will be participation of fifteen cadets from the officers' training corps units of British public schools.
The most coveted single awards at the meet are the King's medal and the Governor-General's prize. The competition for the former takes place under battle firing conditions as determined by the general staff. It is open to actual serving members of any unit of His Majesty's forces in Canada.

Chemainus Nine Win Ball Title

Chemainus, Aug. 7.—The J. Ryan Cup, emblematic of the Senior "B" baseball championship of Vancouver Island, will rest in the Chemainus Recreation Club for the next twelve months. The locals won the title on Sunday, when they defeated Alberni, 14-7, and finished a full game ahead of Courtenay. It is the first time since 1912 that the coveted trophy has found a resting place here.

Washington Senators cut the lead of the Philadelphia Athletics to six and a half games in the American League by downing Connie Mack's champions 5 to 1. Red Sam Jones held the A's to six hits.

Goffman shut out the Sox 5 to 0 and allowed three hits, but ancient Red Faber got just as far with less effort in the second game, pitching Chicago to a 5 to 2 triumph.

Boston Braves wound up a seven-game series with the Phillies with a three-run spurt in the ninth for 5 to 4 victory.

The New York Giants and Cincinnati Reds were not scheduled.

B.C. and Alberta Still Deadlocked In Western Canada Cricket

Leaders Engage In Drawn Match After Exciting Struggle

Championship Will Likely Remain in Doubt Until Two Elevens Meet for Second Time; Alberta Came Close to Winning Yesterday, With the Stumps Being Drawn at Eighth Wicket; Saskatchewan Scores First Points of Tournament by Victory Over Manitoba.

Canadian Press

Calgary, Aug. 7.—The Western Canada cricket championship will likely remain in doubt until the second and final meeting between Alberta and British Columbia on Saturday afternoon. This was the general opinion this morning as the teams went into action for the fourth day's play after the two leaders had divided the honors yesterday.

British Columbia scored 237 for nine declared on Wednesday, and then Alberta came back to bat out time and had piled up the fine total of 211 for eight when stumps were drawn. This left the two teams tied for top position with five points each. On the form displayed to date it is expected that the leaders will meet Manitoba and Saskatchewan on Thursday and Friday to continue the deadlock for the honors.

Saskatchewan, last year's champions, got their first points in the tournament yesterday by defeating the luckless Manitoba eleven, 115 to 82, in a match which was dominated by the bowlers. The batsmen held the upper hand in the Alberta-B.C. game. It is doubtful if a more closely fought contest has been staged in the history of cricket in this city than the British Columbia-Alberta match.

A HARD-FIGHTING GAME. The coast eleven battled first and piled up their score of 237 during a session that lasted from 10 o'clock to 3.15 o'clock.

Reed and Broadfoot gave the B.C. eleven a good start. The former was caught by Campbell off Hesketh after scoring 21 runs. Broadfoot played until just after the luncheon interval before being bowled by Robson for a hard hit, 65.

Sparks, the skipper, collected 36 be-

TWO CREWS FOR KELOWNA MEET

Junior Four and Junior Double to Make Trip to Interior For Big Regatta

At the special request of the Kelowna officials the James Bay Athletic Association will send its strongest senior four to the interior in search of titles at stake at the 14th but will be represented by a five husky youngsters, it was announced today.

One junior four, stroked by Ivan Randall and composed of Phil Ford, Jimmy Mann and Frank Cole, and one junior double, with Ivan Randall and Hugh Francis pulling the oars, will make the trip. James Mann, senior, will accompany the crews.

The boys have shown plenty of speed in regatta here and should be able to take the majority of shells at the regatta.

They will leave Victoria on Saturday for the event.

Obliging Walter Diner-Walter, I'll have a pork chop with fried potatoes, and I'll have the chop less.

Walter—Yes, sir, and which way was undefeated at the finish for 58.

Dean and L. Jones opened Alberta's innings, the former starting to punish Rhodes in his first over. Jones did not stay very long, being stumped by Broadfoot, off Rhodes, after making three runs.

Robson was joined by his skip, Wright.

The latter, after scoring 13, popped up to Darcus at point, to make way for Arthur Jones. Robson and Jones rapidly piled up the score, and for a time it looked as though Alberta would manage to snatch a victory. Through an unfortunate misunderstanding Robson was run out, when he had scored 33, and Hesketh joined Jones.

PLAY STEADILY. Hesketh and Jones played steadily until time was up, being unbeaten with 17 and 25, respectively.

Mitchell for B.C. was the most successful bowler, taking four wickets for 2 runs.

There was no particular bowler to stand out on the Alberta side. Robson, Wright, Hesketh, Cartwright and L. Jones shared the wickets.

A TRIO OF STARS

By JIMMY THOMPSON

WALTER HORNBY

Both the eastern and western extremities of the Dominion will be represented at the track and field championships to be held at Toronto, August 9. These trials are the final bicentennial for the coming British Empire games at Hamilton. The card for this year's meet is patterned after the Olympic games and the events are held at metric distances. Canada's marathons have already been chosen, but the runners who will carry the Maple Leaf at five and ten thousand metres at the games will be chosen from the champions of the South End Rowing Club. Speculation is rife as to who will constitute the team as there are so many capable runners to choose from. At 10,000 metres W.H. McCluskey of Toronto has earned the title of "chief of the sixes," owing to the fact that he has yet to be beaten over the six-mile route. While Reynolds of Galt, generally regarded as one of the best fifteen-milers, will also be battling for a place on the 10,000 metre team. Experts claim that he will secure this without much difficulty. Walter "Red" Hornby, the Hamilton Olympic Club star, is the outstanding favorite for the 5,000 metre event.

New York, Aug. 7.—The New York Giants yesterday announced the purchase of Jim Mooney, big left-handed pitcher, from the Charlotte, N.C., club of the South Atlantic Association. He is expected to join the Giants this fall.

Bob Cummings Is Winner of Coast Sculling Honors

Vancouver, Aug. 7.—Bob Cummings, formerly of Kelowna, B.C., but now of San Francisco, and racing under the colors of the South End Rowing Club of the California city, yesterday evening won the tuck-weight singles sculling title of the Pacific Coast by defeating Eddie Sned, of Vancouver, in a special match race. The event was over the regular Henley distance of one mile 550 yards.

Cummings won by twenty lengths in eight minutes forty seconds. Sned collapsed 200 yards from the finish line.

Says for a short distance around the half-way mark, Cummings had control of the race all the way.

FIGHT TO DRAW

Winnipeg, Aug. 7.—Headliners of a Canadian Legion boxing card, Laurie Peppin and Frank Battaglia, local pugilists, were scheduled to draw a draw decision at the Amphitheatre last night.

In a preliminary, full of action, Al Harding of Vancouver, B.C., drew with Juddy Ruddy of Grand Forks, N.D. Harding weighed 134½; Ruddy, 134.

First Miniature Links On Ship Installed On Ile de France

New York, Aug. 7.—A miniature golf course, the first to be installed on a transatlantic liner, has been added to the equipment of the French liner Ile de France and was ready for use when the ship sailed from here. It is a nine-hole course, forty by fifty feet, and is on the sun deck.

The course is of artificial grass, its fairways obstructed by hazards in the form of imitation logs, rocks and other materials. A net fence enclosed the course, thus preventing players from driving into the expansive water hazard of the Atlantic.

Soldier Field Is Expected to Gain Attendance Mark

Chicago, Aug. 7.—Soldier Field, Chicago's gigantic lake front stadium, may already have set a new attendance record to its list.

Already holder of attendance records for football and boxing, the stadium is expected to break the 50,000 mark established for a track and field event when the British-American meet is held August 27. The track record was established at Los Angeles in 1928 during the Pacific Coast Olympic try-outs.

Vice-President Curtis has accepted an invitation to watch the international meet and the Prince of Wales has been asked to join him.

"I told Tom that the average woman's clothing weighs only eight ounces."

"And what did he say?"

"He thought it was a shame they had to wear such heavy shoes."

25,000 QUACKS LISTED IN HEALTH ROGUES GALLERY

Business Bureau Helps in Checking Careers of Charlatans

New York, Aug. 4.—More than 25,000 medical quacks, manufacturers of spurious "cure-alls," peddlers of nostrums, "inventors" of diet and exercise systems and others who prey on the credulous have been listed in the new "Rogues' Gallery" of the New York Department of Health, said to be the first of its kind in existence. It outlines the careers of the quacks, and the names of the famous Rogues' Gallery in Scotland Yard, but only word pictures are essential for the work for which the department will use the new gallery.

Special Deputy Health Commissioner Edward Fisher Brown suggested the creation of the Health Department "Rogues' Gallery," and the work was carried out under his supervision and in co-operation with the National Better Business Bureau, Inc., which has a staff and a staff to make the compilation. The gallery has been installed in the Division of Legal Medicine of the Department of Health, and will be used in tracing complaints filed by victims of quacks and in preparing cases against violators of the medical and drug laws. It will not be open to the curious.

CHECKED CAREERS LISTED

Contained in the folders are the incriminating histories of not only those who have flouted the law but also of many who, although admittedly the danger line, have so far been successful in evading arrest. Almost every known member of the class of gentry who defraud the public, delude the sick and ensnare the well through quack medical advice, illegal medicine, spurious "cure-alls" and so-called electric devices has been enrolled in the new "Rogues' Gallery."

The folders disclose the checked careers of abortionists, medical crooks, quacks, charlatans, manufacturers of questionable medicines, worthless hair growers and poisonous tonics; peddlers of "Indian herb" concoctions; harmful cosmetics, including rouges, powders, creams, washes, toilet waters, lipsticks, etc.; manufacturers or peddlers of "horse collars" and other useless electric devices; "inventors" and peddlers of worthless diets, exercise and reducing systems; and a complete list of the manufacturers and analysts of quack medicines and other medical articles offered for sale in drug stores and other shops which do not have the approval of the American Medical Association.

In announcing the new gallery Health Commissioner Shirley W. Wynne called attention to the work which had its inception early in the year when he opened his drive to rid the radio broadcasting field of health charlatans. At that time he advocated

Pile Sufferers

End Your Misery Without Salves or Cutting

External treatments cannot permanently end Piles. Nor does cutting remove the cause.

The cause is internal—bad circulation of the blood in the lower bowel. The veins are flabby—the bowel walls weak—the parts almost dead. To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles an internal medicine must be used to heal and strengthen the affected parts.

Dr. J. S. Leonard, a specialist, after years of study discovered a real internal Pile remedy. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and prescribed it for 1,000 patients, with the marvelous record of success in 980 cases, and then decided every Pile sufferer should be able to get HEM-ROID from their own druggist.

Don't waste time on external remedies or think of the pain and expense of an operation. Get a package of HEM-ROID from MacFarlane and Vancouver Drug Stores, with their guarantee of money-back if it does not end all Pile misery. (Adv.)

FAKE PUBLICITY RACKET FINDS READY VICTIMS

Vain Executives Pay Million a Year to Puffers, Fraud
Bureau Exposes

New York, Aug. 7.—The results of an investigation of schemes by which business men are "racketeered" in the belief that their biographies and photographs will be published in newspapers throughout the country when they figure in the news were made public recently by the National Better Business Bureau, Inc., under the heading "Big Business Falls for Vanity Appeal."

"In the mistaken belief that they can buy their way into the news columns of reputable newspapers, business executives are spending more than $1,000,000 a year," the report states. "For a fee ranging from $100 to $1,000, depending on what the traffic will bear, some twenty firms styling themselves 'press associations' or 'press bureaus' or 'press syndicates' offer to prepare and publish a short but favorable biography of the individual, for distribution in as many as 1,000 newspapers throughout the country."

"According to complaints received by the bureau, a number of business men have contributed for a biography service, believing they were dealing with the Associated Press or other accredited press associations, and were chagrined to learn that these groups never solicit nor accept money from individuals or corporations for biographical matter.

"Instances have been reported indicating that some of the so-called associations have threatened to publish uncomplimentary biographies if the subject refused to subscribe for a favorable one."

Another form of the racket is the "puff" or "glory" sheets—magazines containing complimentary writeups exclusively. Here the scheme is worked by rewriting some news item that appeared in the press about some prominent firm or executive and then telephoning to the subject of the writeup to check up on its accuracy. These publications adopt a name similar to legitimate publications such as Nation's Business, and System Magazine, and when telephone call is made, the subject believes he is dealing with one of these reputable publications. The solicitor then urges him to take additional copies of the issue in which the writeup will appear, for filing and publicity purposes. Many prominent executives and corporations have been victimized by this scheme, the bureau says.

THREE POINTS ON PRAIRIES REPORT RAINS

But Canadian Plains People in General Look in Vain For Downpour

Canadian Press
Winnipeg, Aug. 7.—Rain fell overnight in the sun-baked prairie country, but only in three districts, and temperatures still were high to-day.

Weather records made for yesterday showed available to-day by meteorological officials showed thirty of fifty-five stations on the prairies listed mercury readings between 90 and 100. Estevan, in southern Saskatchewan, was the hottest of all at 99 degrees.

Traces of rain were noted at Lloydminster, near the Alberta-Saskatchewan border, and at The Pas and Prince Albert, where forest fires had been dangerous. Warmest weather seemed centred at the International Boundary with Emerson, Minn., at 95, and Yellowknife, Sask., at 96. City dwellers prepared under a merciless sun. Winnipeg and Brandon thermometers rose to 90 and 91. Heat drove the mercury at Regina to 90, at Moosejaw, to 92 and at Saskatoon to 93. In Alberta, Edmonton reported 88 degrees and Medicine Hat and Empress 94.

TWO BORDER TOWNS SWEEP BY BIG FLOOD

CHILDREN DROWNED

Don Phillips, United States aviator, forced his way to the United States side with a report of having seen several small children swept away when an adobe building collapsed.

TRANSPORTATION STOPPED

The rain which later became a flood started at 8 last evening.

All intercity communication and transportation was still stopped shortly after midnight.

A single telephone line to Tucson, Arizona, seventy-five miles away, connected Nogales with the outside world. Reports from Tucson said the precipitation was general between the two cities, although it centred at Nogales.

CLOUTING TRACKS

The streets of the United States border city were running with water almost an hour before rain fell within its limits. A cloudburst was believed to have broken over the nearby Santa Rita Mountains, sending a wall of water down the narrow Santa Rita Valley.

At 1 a.m. M.S.T., all electric lights in both of the twin cities went out. Telegraph lines, including the Southern Pacific Railroad's, went dead shortly after midnight.

CHANGE OF GOVERNMENT MADE AT OTTAWA TO- DAY

well content. In opposition, the outgoing administration would be very strong. With such veteran parliamentarians as would adorn the front benches of the opposition, the Premier believed they would be able to carry out their functions vigorously.

"We had an excellent meeting and everybody was in the best of spirits," declared the Prime Minister. "Everything is now ready to be turned over, and the matter of when the change takes place rests with Mr. Bennett."

The entire cabinet was present at yesterday's meeting, including the ministers appointed just before the election—Hon. Ian MacKenzie, Hon. Cyrus MacMillan and Hon. W. F. Kay. Hon. C. A. Dunning and Hon. Lucien Cannon, two defeated ministers, were also present.

Prior to the meeting a group photograph of the retiring cabinet was taken. "Just as a souvenir of our long association in government," the Prime Minister said.

There was nothing of gloom on the faces of the ministers as they left the chamber. They laughed and chatted together and some of them shook hands with the newspapermen who were present.

The Prime Minister was in a cheerful mood. He shook hands with the reporters and chatted with them for several minutes. "Our last meeting," he said.

He intimated the relief from the burden of administrative responsibility would give him an opportunity to rest. His years in office had been something of a strain, but those years had been fruitful of legislation that had established for his administration an excellent record, said Mr. King.

FOUR "ORIGINALS"

While ministers go out of office with Premier King at the handing over of power to Hon. R. B. Bennett, only four of the retiring ministers have served under Mr. King's leadership since he first assumed office in 1921. These four "originals" are Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Justice; Senator Raoul Dandurand, Minister without portfolio and government leader in the Senate; Hon. Charles Stewart, Minister of the Interior, and Hon. W. R. Motherwell, Minister of Agriculture.

Mr. Lapointe entered Mr. King's first cabinet as Minister of Marine and Fisheries and became Minister of Justice in 1924. With the exception of the three months' break in 1926 when the "Shadow Government" of Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen held office, Mr. Motherwell and Mr. Stewart have held the same portfolios continuously.

In point of long association with Premier King, Hon. F. J. A. Gault is next. He has been Minister of Marine and Fisheries since January, 1924. Hon. Lucien Cannon was appointed Solicitor-General in 1924, but did not obtain Cabinet rank until 1926, when he was made a privy councillor.

Of the rest of the retiring ministers, most have been in the government since 1922. It was in that year that Hon. C. A. Dunning left his post as Premier of Saskatchewan to become Minister of Railways and Canals and eventually Minister of Finance.

Hon. J. C. Elliott then entered the government as Minister of Labor and later in the year became Minister of Public Works.

Hon. Peter J. Vanloot, Postmaster-General, Hon. W. D. Buler, Minister of National Revenue; Hon. Fernand Rinfret, Secretary of State; Hon. James Macleod, Minister of Trade and Commerce; Hon. Peter Hewitt, Minister of Labor, and Hon. J. L. Ralston, Minister of National Defence, all entered the government in 1926, as well as Hon.

GOLD LOSS DISTURBS LONDON AS FRANCE PILES UP RESERVES

London, Aug. 6.—The heavy outflow of gold to Paris has thrown a cloud over the London market for high-grade securities, which until this week had shown stout resistance to the depression prevailing in other securities. The outflow is expected to continue for some time to come. It is understood that the capacity of London refineries is being increased, also that Paris refiners are arranging to handle larger amounts daily. It is possible, therefore, that weekly withdrawal of gold from London may rise approximately £2,000,000.

Assuming that rate of shipment during the next few weeks, the Bank of England's gold holdings, after allowing for arrival of sovereigns from Africa, would be reduced to about £145,000,000 by the end of next month. This would be £15,500,000 below the high point reached in May and only £15,000,000 above last autumn's lowest. Although the bank's present gold reserve is larger by £4,250,000 than a year ago, not been offset by any corresponding the prospect of such substantial impending reductions before the real autumn pressure arises is causing uneasiness.

This week's withdrawals for France have aggregated £2,310,000, including £700,000 bought in the open market. It is apparently due to the inability of France to get sufficient gold from London that shipments are now being made from New York. Holland recently lost gold to France and the Paris market would also have drawn on Berlin but for the action of the Reichsbank in supporting exchange with a view to preventing such exports.

It is fair to say that the London market is still mystified over the reasons for this persistent movement to France; all the more because while the latest return of the French bank shows gold holdings £130,000,000 greater than at the end of stabilization in 1928. This gold increase has larger by £4,250,000 than a year ago, not been offset by any corresponding decline in French credits held abroad. It is, therefore, still insisted here that the French accumulation of gold must be part of a definite policy at the Bank of France. London has been assured from time to time that the French bank has no desire to inconvenience other financial centres, but when the London market is faced with the possibility of a higher bank rate a little later on, its criticism of the French attitude is at least comprehensible.

AND SO A TOWN WAS BORN

The engineer in the motor-boat pointed to a densely timbered slope on Burrard Inlet.

"There's a good spot," he said. So the party got out and looked around. They hoped the engineer was right, for they had been cruising about the Sound north of Vancouver seeking a site for a new oil refinery.

And the engineer was right. A few months later the slope had been cleared, a great industrial plant had been erected and around it nestled a city of snug new homes. It was called Ioco.

Ioco happened sixteen years ago. It was the second of Imperial Oil's refineries. Four others have been built since—at Imperial, N.S., Montreal, East, Calgary and Regina. They have been built in order to meet new demands for gasoline and lubrication.

For the fifty years since it began, Imperial Oil has been meeting these new needs of transportation and industry.

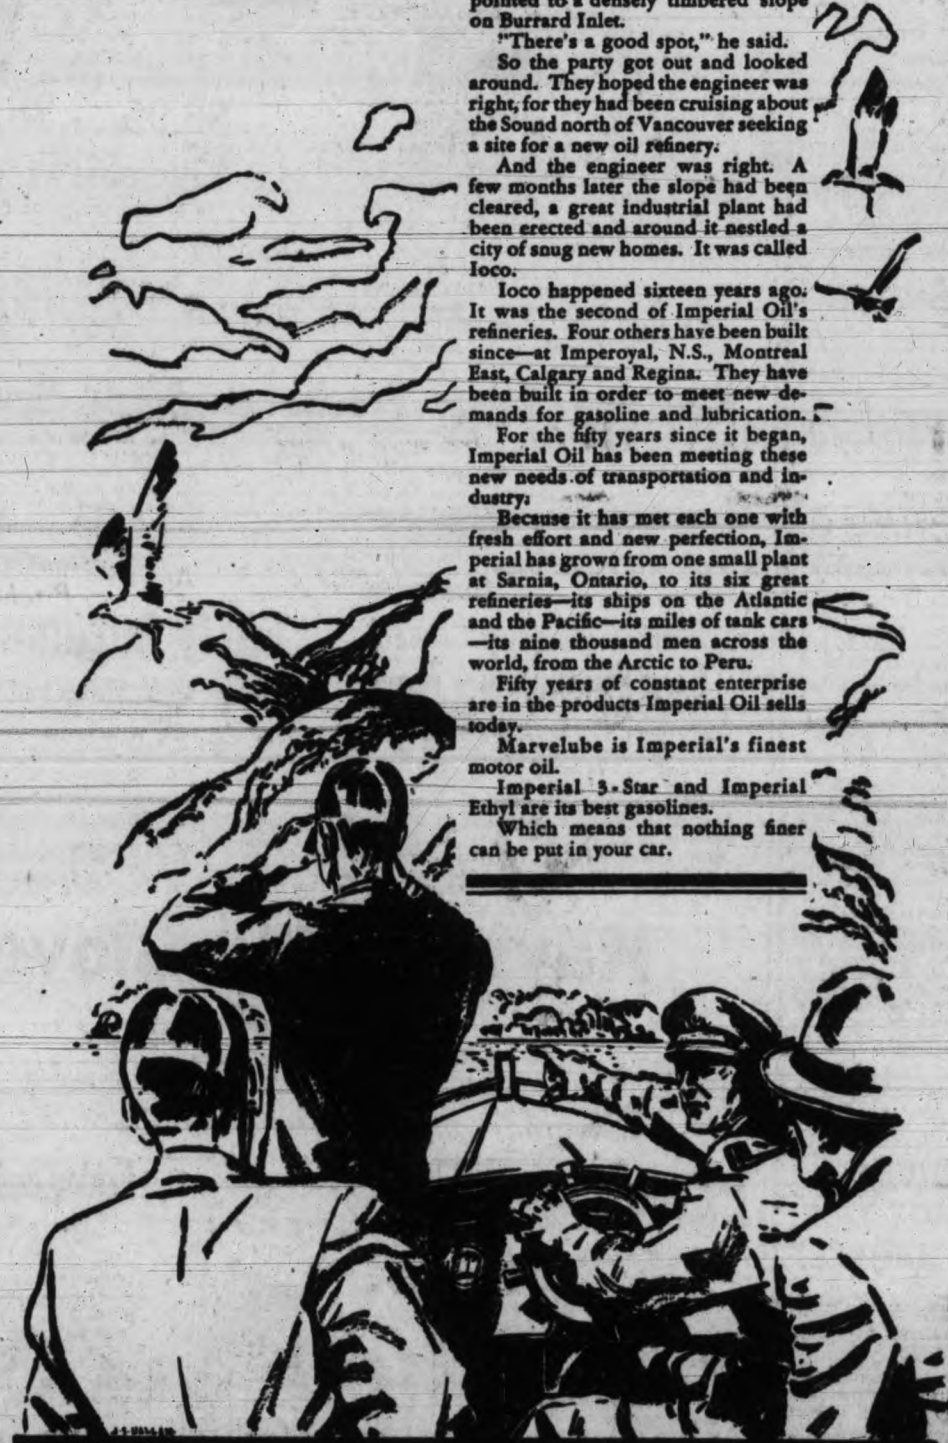

Because it has met each one with fresh effort and new perfection, Imperial has grown from one small plant at Sarnia, Ontario, to its six great refineries—its ships on the Atlantic and the Pacific—its miles of tank cars—its nine thousand men across the world, from the Arctic to Peru.

Fifty years of constant enterprise are in the products Imperial Oil sells today.

FAITH IN BUCKLEY STILL UNSHAKEN DESPITE CHARGES

By BRUCE CATTON

Detroit, Aug. 7.—Jerry Buckley, who was only a voice out of the shadows to hundreds of thousands of Detroiters, is accomplishing more by his death than he possibly could have accomplished alive.

Jerry Buckley, for one reason or another, fought Detroit's gangs and its malodorous politicians. The city knew him only by his voice, but it paid a good deal of attention to him; and now that his voice is silent the city is listening to him as never before.

Jerry Buckley was killed at the close of the most heated election campaign Detroit ever knew; was killed by three paid gunmen, who put eleven bullets into his body in the lobby of the La Salle Hotel. Because he was killed, Detroit to-day has a better chance of emerging from misrule, gang domination and civic corruption than it has had in many a year.

PUBLIC IS AROUSED
It is a queer story, this story of Buckley. Buckley, you might say, has become the country's first "radio martyr." He fought for civic decency and law and order, and he was shot to death just as his fight closed, and it makes little difference that the commissioner of police says he holds an affidavit accusing Buckley of having had dealings with racketeers. The public, now that Jerry Buckley is dead, still regards him with the esteem that he enjoyed when he was alive. He still leads the fight to rid the city of its gangs.

Gerald E. Buckley was a radio announcer. For two years he had thirty minutes every evening, over station WMBC, to talk to the citizens of Detroit. He used to give brief news summaries and short talks—talks on any question he felt like discussing. He built up an enormous following.

AN "AERIAL NEWSPAPER"
He became one of the city's popular broadcasters. He was a sort of an aerial newspaper. He would discuss unemployment, would try to get jobs for the hungry, would collect money to feed the poor. And he would demand that the police clean up Detroit and wipe out the "blind pigs" and gambling joints.

His radio appeals for the unemployed won him his great following. Last winter he actually got jobs for more than 3,500 men. He collected huge sums for relief work. People swore by him, wrote letters to him, almost idolized him.

Then came the campaign which resulted in the recall of Mayor Charles Bowles. Buckley was a spirited opponent of the mayor, urging his hearers, every night, to vote for the recall. On election night he broadcast the returns from the city hall, announced at 11 o'clock that the recall had carried, and then went to the La Salle Hotel.

Two hours later he was shot to death. INDIGNATION RUNS HIGH
Detroit at once leaped to the conclusion that Buckley had been killed because of his efforts to oust the mayor. The city almost exploded with indignation.

Buckley's body lay in state at his residence. People who used to listen to his broadcasts came to look at it. At one time they stood in a line four blocks long, five abreast, waiting to pass by the casket. In two days no fewer than 100,000 people paid this tribute.

No citizen of Detroit ever got that great a tribute before.

POLICE MAKE ACCUSATIONS
In the confusion made of charges and counter charges it is hard to find out the real truth about the man. Police Commissioner Thomas Wilcox says that a certain man has given him an affidavit stating that Buckley had induced him to become a bootlegger and then had "shaken him down" for $4,000.

It is also claimed that Buckley had collected money from bootleggers and gambling houses owners on threat of exposing them to his radio audiences. So far no evidence has been produced.

No one can say if any or all of these charges were correct. But, in reality, it does not make much difference now. Jerry Buckley dead, has more followers than any living Detroit. It is useless to tell his followers that he did not have clean hands. They already remark, "Then, why didn't all this stuff about his being a crook come out before he was killed?"

WHY NOT?

LET US SHOW YOU WHAT WE CONSIDER one of the most charming bungalow homes in Victoria. You will be under no obligation whatever to buy, but if you are really looking for something better than the "Ordinary Stucco Bungalow," a model home, we know that you will be favorably impressed with this charming place.

The unexpected transfer of his business has necessitated the owner leaving the city, otherwise he would not have considered selling his property at any price.

This bungalow, comprising six rooms, contains everything that could possibly be desired and the price is right. A worthwhile reduction will be made for all cash.

This is something worth while investigating and genuine inquiries will be appreciated.

Boy Made Up Riddles to Puzzle His Mother

"Guess this one!" cried little Joseph Drake. His mother knitted her brows and pretended to be puzzled over the riddle, which she had heard many times before. And when she finally guessed it, and was wrong, Joseph laughed and clapped his hands and told her the right answer. He loved riddles, but he loved them better if they were rhymed. He liked the swing of rhyme. His mother taught him new ones often, and he went about the house chanting them. He knew a surprising number of rhymes for a five-year-old boy.

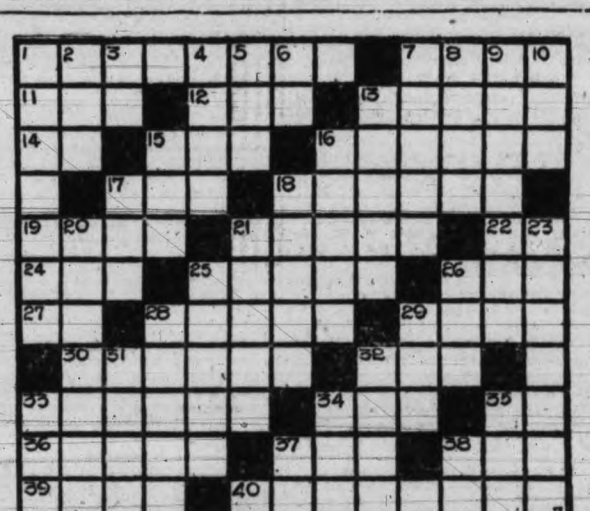

One day when he was asking his mother riddles, she looked really puzzled. Here was one she had never heard before. "Who taught you that one, Joseph?" she asked.

"Nobody. I made it myself. Because you didn't give me any more new ones."

That was Joseph Rodman Drake's first poem. He was one of the first American poets. His best-known poem is often taught in school. It begins, "When freedom from her mountain height." He was born August 7, 1793.

SEES CRASH COMING FOR OLD THEISM

Humanist Explains Why Church Fights For Old Super-natural Belief

New York, Aug. 7. — Dr. Charles Francis Potter gave an eleven-volume definition of his philosophy in an address at the First Humanist Society, Chalf Hall, No. 163 West 57th Street. He said "the recent Wall Street crash will seem like child's play when the crash of theism comes."

Humanism is "faith in the supreme value and self-perfectibility of human personality," Dr. Potter gave as his definition. Only the individual can improve himself. Dr. Potter continued.

Anyone else who tries to make you good, whether that anyone is your mother or a prohibitionist, will do you more harm than good.

"No miracle can make a man good, nor can it prove any religion to be true."

Declaring belief in the virgin birth and the Resurrection a part "of the very structure of Christianity," Dr. Potter said: "Well do the Fundamentalists fight hard to retain them. They know, if the Modernists do not, that if you reject the supernatural in Christianity you may have religion left, but it is not Christianity."

According to a Norwegian scientist, wireless waves travel more than a million miles from the surface of the earth and are then reflected back by a layer of electrons.

RECORD DROUGHT GRIPS BIG AREA IN U.S.

There will not be any need of food relief in the Mississippi valley for some time to come, judging from the above map, which shows the deficiency in rainfall—taking 100 as the average—in one of the hottest and driest summers on record. Memphis, Tennessee, has not seen more than a trace of rain for over seventy days—which was about the time the Graf Zeppelin started across the Atlantic on its most recent flight to this continent.

MORE ASIATICS NOW EMPLOYED THAN LAST YEAR

NATIVES OF EUROPE
Some notable changes are seen in the tables concerning natives of Continental Europe. Natives of Belgium increased from 342 in 1928 to 578 in 1929. France has a decrease of eight the total being 465. Italy again has a loss this time of twenty-eight, having 2,638 for 1929. Germany's total is now 1,001, an increase of 226 over the preceding year. Austria-Hungary makes another sharp advance from 1,135 to 1,808 in 1929, an increase of 673. Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Finland, and other Scandinavian countries increased by 1,415, there being now 11,022 employed. Natives of Russia again made an advance this year, from 4,053 in 1928 to 4,633 for 1929. The percentage of the four divisions will be seen in the following table:

Natives of English-speaking countries	1924	1925	1926	1927	1928	1929
Natives of Continental Europe	72.33	70.85	70.92	72.51	72.65	70.34
Natives of Asiatic countries	14.56	15.91	15.63	15.06	17.03	18.56
From other countries, or nationality not stated	11.97	11.30	11.58	10.20	9.33	10.01
	1.14	1.94	1.90	2.24	1.00	1.09

The tables showing the nationality of employees have changed from the previous year. Natives of English-speaking countries decreased from 72.55 per cent in 1928 to 70.34 per cent in 1929. Those from Continental Europe increased to 18.56 per cent in 1929 from 17.02 per cent in 1928. Natives of Canada and Newfoundland again took an upward turn, rising from 38.07 per cent in 1928 to 39.17 per cent for 1929. The percentage of those from the British Isles again fell, the figures being 28.73 per cent, as against 30.83 for 1928.

INCREASE IN AVERAGE WAGE
The average industrial wage covering a full week's work for all adult male employees again advanced over the preceding year from $28.96 in 1928 to $29.20 for 1929.

This average is calculated from figures supplied by each firm for the week of employment of the greatest number, and represents the pay for a full week's work. The actual earnings in many cases would at certain seasons of the year be lower, owing to stoppages or broken time. On the other hand, many employees would receive larger amounts on occasions when overtime was being worked. Striking a general average for all occupations covered by the returning received, we arrive at the following figures:

The average weekly wage for industrial workers (adult males only) since the compilation of these statistics is as follows:

1918	1919	1920	1921	1922	1923	1924	1925	1926	1927	1928	1929

The number of apprentices in industry again increased over the previous year, this time by forty-eight, there being a total of 1,078 thus classified at the end of 1929.

EMPLOYMENT OF FEMALES
During the year 1929 the proportion of females employed in industry fell from 8.75 per cent to 8.06; decreases in the number of females employed were shown in cigar and tobacco manufacturing, leather and fur goods, miscellaneous trades and industries, and in the manufacture of food products; while increases were noted in Coast shipping, house-furnishing, laundry, cleaning and dyeing, metal trades, and printing and publishing. In the other groups the employment of females remained about the same.

FLUCTUATION OF EMPLOYMENT
The peak month of the year changed from August in 1928 to July in 1929, with the number gainfully employed at 98,140, this being 4,004 more than for the previous year. A gradual decline is noticed up to November, where a sharp drop takes place, followed by a more pronounced decline for the month of December. The figures for December above there were 1,285 more employed than in the first month of the year; January again being the month of least employment.

The peak month for the lumber industry changed from October in 1928 to May in 1929, with a total of 27,041 employed. Coal-mining moved to March, in 1929, from October, 1928; Coast shipping from December, 1928, to July, 1929.

The period of highest employment in the food products group was August, the same month as for 1928.

You've probably heard of San Francisco's famous Chinese telephone exchange, but few people know that the city has an Oriental stock exchange, too. Above you see a complete board in operation in a stock trading room in Frisco's Chinatown. The young Chinese marker memorized the whole list in forty-eight hours as well as the phonetic Cantonese symbols for each stock issue. Left, below, is a close-up of the board showing both Chinese and English symbols for the stocks, while at the right, below, is a daily stock sheet telling how various stocks have fluctuated.

Two workers are killed by explosion

Shawinigan Falls, Que., Aug. 7.—Orphir Julien, twenty-five, and Edgar Carrier, thirty-seven, died this morning from injuries sustained when an explosion occurred in building No. 1 of the Shawinigan Chemicals Company. Three other employees, A. Bellemare, Arthur Therrien and Frederic Therrien, were more or less seriously injured.

Bellemare had six ribs broken, Arthur Therrien received injuries about the body and Frederic Therrien is suffering from nervous shock.

The cause of the blast has not been ascertained. Doors and windows were smashed by the explosion.

One of the injured, Arthur Therrien, was sent flying through a window of the three-story building by the explosion, which shook the chemical structure to its foundation but caused only slight damage.

Bellemare and Arthur Therrien, though seriously injured, will probably recover.

prejudice and place itself upon a foundation of international unity. Science and religion must converge to form a synthetic interpretation of the universe which will satisfy the religious and worshipping tendencies in human nature as well as the scientific. It is the supreme opportunity for the educational elements to bring together such questions, without which we cannot go forward."

Canon Raven pointed out that the studios mind and the religious had worked in close correlation throughout the history of civilization, citing the activity of the groups at the University of Alexandria, the Aristotelians at Avicenna, the spirit of Erasmus in the Italian Renaissance, and concluded that "through the intellectual stock, the Christian doctrine spread."

In the present era, he said, there are distinct signs that the reconciliation between the scientific research of the past century and the religious dogma of antiquity is being gradually effected.

"The task is being taken," he declared, "and hostility is being broken down. A remarkable change has taken place in the attitude of biologists, physicists and students of natural science and many of the exaggerations formerly existing have been removed. It is a message to the younger generation to carry forward the task."

A congregation of about 500 crowded the chapel beyond its seating capacity.

Dr. Raven of Liverpool Pleads For Return to Spirit of the Renaissance

New York, Aug. 7.—Canon Charles E. Raven of the Liverpool Cathedral in England conducted the services at the James Memorial Chapel of Union Theological Seminary, Broadway and 120th Street. He urged the younger generation to strive for an amicable settlement of prevalent misunderstandings between natural science and religion.

"The tragedy of the past century has been in not bringing together the unity of religion and the natural sciences," he said. "It is a tragic story. Those who have fostered this divergence have proceeded, as antagonists always do, to develop the worst sides of their own characters. War never accomplished anything."

On the subject of world peace, Canon Raven said:

"The world is coexisting not only to international peace but to international co-operation. This cannot succeed upon a basis of fear of war alone. Peace is only secure if mankind can lift its various states out of national

SUMMER SCHOOL HODS CLOSING FETE TO-NIGHT

Display of Work, Concert and Gym Display to Be Featured This Evening

Excellent Year Reported By John Kyle; School Closes To-morrow

One of the most successful seasons ever held by the Summer School for Teachers here will be drawn to a close to-morrow afternoon, it was announced by John Kyle, director, to-day. This evening the students will give their usual display of work, concert and folk dancing exhibition in the High School, preparatory to leaving the institution.

In speaking of the term, Mr. Kyle stated the school had met with exceptional success and had completely satisfied the branch of the Department of Education in charge of it.

With the doors opening at 7 o'clock, friends of the teachers and those generally interested in the school, will be given an opportunity to examine the different pieces of creative handwork on display. In addition, the work of the primary, elementary, senior and high school grades will be on view.

It will include lettering, painted woodwork, block printing, basketry, pottery and scores of other pieces of handicraft made by the students during their studies.

The concert in the auditorium will be opened by selections by the juvenile symphony orchestra, which has made tremendous progress during the term. These will be followed by choral numbers by the elementary school class.

Students of speech training will then be heard in recitations under the direction of Mrs. Wilfred Ord. The concert will close with choral selections, conducted by Norman Englewood. Following the recital, the audience will proceed to the gymnasium, where folk dancing exhibitions will be given by the pupils of Miss Vivian Johnson. It is planned to make this event picturesque by dressing the various performers in national costumes of many countries of the world.

CONCERT TO-NIGHT

To-morrow John R. Scoby, manager of the Dominion Bank, will address the mathematics students of the refresher normal course in "The Origin and History of Banking." This lecture, which will be open to all members of the Summer School, will be given at 10 o'clock in the morning.

Students of speech training will then be heard in recitations under the direction of Mrs. Wilfred Ord. The concert will close with choral selections, conducted by Norman Englewood.

During the week the school has been fortunate in securing the services of Robert Jarman, Physical Culture Director of Winnipeg, who has brought to the coast to give a special series of lectures before the Summer School student body.

NEW LOVE BY BRITISH C.T.R. STOCKHOLDERS

May Ask U.S. Courts to Declare They Own C.N.R. Lines in the U.S.

Chairman of London Committee Hopes to Discuss Matter With Bennett

Toronto, Aug. 7.—British holders of the first and second perpetual preference stocks of the Canadian National Railway are considering entering action in United States courts to have title to the Canadian National lines in the United States declared theirs.

The ground they were illegally acquired by the Canadian Government, R. C. Hawkins of London, chairman of the perpetual stockholders' committee, said here to-day.

Mr. Hawkins said Representative James M. Beck of Pennsylvania, former Solicitor-General of the United States, had been retained by the Grand Trunk stockholders to study the claim and any action taken likely would be based on the advice of Mr. Beck. Mr. Hawkins left for Ottawa shortly, said he would endeavor to discuss with the new Bennett Government the claims of the C.T.R. shareholders.

OPINION QUOTED

The Grand Trunk stockholders' committee, Mr. Hawkins said, had published an opinion of J. Arthur Barratt, K.C., of the United States Supreme Court, in which he declared that the rights under United States law, Mr. Barratt's opinion is that the proceedings under the United States law, and therefore the perpetual stockholders' committee, could not govern their rights to any property of the Grand Trunk Railway in the United States.

Mr. Barratt claims that even if the arbitration award and the legislation passed by Canada to implement that award were considered binding in Canada, it cannot be considered binding in the United States.

NO AGREEMENT

"The preference stockholders made no agreement to accept the arbitration award," Mr. Hawkins said, "and our perpetual rights were not pleaded either at the arbitration or before the Federal Council or in the application for a fiat."

Almost the full membership of the Sketch Club of the Island Arts and Crafts met at "Benvenuto" today on Monday and greatly enjoyed the beautiful garden and the view of the sunken garden while others found their inspiration in the Italian gardens and various parts of this lovely estate. On Monday next the members will meet at the Esquimaux car at one-thirty o'clock, corner of Douglas and Yates Streets, proceeding to Admirals Road and turning to the right towards the sea.

MORE TOURISTS ARE DIRECTED TO NORTHWEST

Tourist traffic flowing from the Eastern United States through Yellowstone Park is being directed in increasing volume to the Pacific Northwest instead of the more southern states, and thereby is coming within the scope of Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau contact men, who persuade travelers to visit the island. It was announced this morning by Publicity Commissioner George I. Warren, following the reading of a letter from the Spokane Chamber of Commerce to this effect.

While the majority of travelers have been advised by Chicago bodies to continue through to Portland, J. E. Freitag, contact man at Rapid City, has exerted his influence to make the trend flow to the north and has been successful in his aims to a large extent.

In his own manner he presents tourists with routings to both southern and northern points and outlines to them road conditions and general highway data. After receiving his advice, many travelers have decided to include Vancouver Island in their tour.

B.C. BOWLING POOR AGAINST MANITOBA XI

Prairie Cricketers Score 153 Runs For Two Wickets in Western Canada Tourney

Calgary, Aug. 7.—British Columbia's bowling collapsed against Manitoba to-day as the second half of the Western Canada cricket championship got underway here. At lunch time the Manitoba batsmen had piled up 153 runs for two wickets in the greatest reversal of form this week. The Coast team had come through the first three games without defeat, drawing with Alberta and beating Manitoba and Saskatchewan easily in previous games.

Manitoba treated the British Columbia bowlers without respect, and the first wicket put on a century, Newsome getting 50 and Pelated being 53 not out at the interval.

ISLAND TO GET NEW ARTERIALS

Dominion Announces Extension of Arterial Plan in Eleven B.C. Districts

Saanich, North Cowichan and Courtenay will be among the municipalities in the Province to benefit from the extension to the arterial highway system of B.C. announced yesterday by the Dominion Government, according to Hon. N. L. Lougheed, Minister of Public Works. These districts will be relieved from the cost of upkeep of the main highways in the communities.

The extension of the arterial highway system now brought into play will classify trunk roads in the following areas as arterial: the cities of Courtenay, Port Moody and Grand Forks; the municipalities of North Cowichan, Matsqui, Saanich, Langley and Chilliwack; the villages of Creston, Mission and Hope.

The Transprovincial Highway through the municipality of Burnaby is also classed as arterial by the new ruling, which is an extension of the system previously taken under control of the Province.

SAN JUAN TO HAVE FESTIVAL OF THREE DAYS

Roche Harbor, San Juan Island, Wash., Aug. 7.—One of the least known armed conflicts of the United States, the "war over a pig," will be commemorated here in a three-day festival beginning Saturday.

The "pig war" began in 1859, before the San Juan Islands had been definitely recognized by Great Britain as United States territory.

The pig was killed by a Britisher during an argument with a United States farmer over the sovereignty of the island, and armed troops of both nations entrenched on opposite ends of the island.

ONLY THE PIG KILLED

The pig was the only casualty in the war, and the armed troops got along in rather a friendly fashion until the Empress of Germany, called as a referee, decided the islands should be ruled by the United States.

Dr. E. O. Holland, president of Washington State College; Dr. Rufus B. Klenzmann, president of the University of Southern California; Will E. Humphrey, of the Federal Trade Commission; and Congressman Lin Hadeney are listed as speakers at the banquet, which will open the festival Saturday evening.

FIXED CALENDAR BENEFITS SHOWN LOCAL CLUBMEN

Moses B. Cotsworth Seeks Clubs' Assistance in Securing Canadian Commission

Traces Development of System From Early Biblical Times at Luncheon

Urging the executives of the Canadian and Rotary Clubs to forward resolutions to the Canadian Government asking it to form a commission on calendar reform, Moses B. Cotsworth, originator of the "fixed calendar," and expert for the League of Nations on this matter, addressed the two clubs at a joint luncheon in the Empress Hotel to-day. Mr. Cotsworth sketched the advantages of such a calendar and spoke generally on it and other date systems since early biblical times.

His address was received with favor by the gathering, which assured him of its co-operation.

"The calendar in all nations began by the natives counting the moon," said Mr. Cotsworth.

He told of the method used by inhabitants of the cannibal islands, and paid tribute to the fine calendar used by a tribe of North American Indians. They utilized an improved method of observing the phases of the moon, he said, adding that it was the same as that used by the Romans during the time of Julius Caesar.

He then referred to the biblical calendar of the time of Jacob, noting that by means of a six moon year, they were able to determine when to plant their crops. By this method double crops were secured, he noted.

TO SWELL TAX BILL

Roman governors had a system of inserting extra months in order to extract further taxes from their tenants, the speaker stated. He showed how the Egyptians had a fixed calendar for outside affairs, but maintained a days and determined exactly the dates of planting.

Moses discovered the Egyptian calendar and drew up one which has proved the best of all time to date, the speaker maintained.

To substantiate his statement he referred to the recent discovery of a plaque in Egyptian hieroglyphics near Beth Alpha.

Also eligible: The system of fixing the Sabbath and religious festivities.

JULIAN CALENDAR

In some detail he sketched the development of the Julian calendar noting that its regulation of dates was of material benefit to Rome.

The seven day week was hailed as a great blessing but eventually led to some confusion, he said.

Before the war the matter had become an international issue. It was taken up by the League of Nations after the war and he had been called in to investigate suggestions, the speaker said.

Three main faults were found with the present calendar. One was the unequal number of days in the month, another the changing day names in the month and, third, the movement of Easter.

By adopting the new calendar the Easter and other church festivals would be fixed, he said.

And if the year was started on a Sunday, Good Friday would always be on April 7 and would be the actual historic date.

Realizing the value of a fixed period in dates, the League of Nations had asked all countries to submit reports on twenty-eight day periods instead of months.

He favored making the odd day in the year an eighth day in the last week of a year. This, he thought, should be made a public holiday, as would leap days, which he proposed to place at the end of July.

He showed facilities in the system suggesting ten thirty months and two of thirty-one, saying it would be possible to gain correct statistics of the rise and fall of business per month under that system.

ADOPT FOUR-WEEK PERIOD

After hearing Mr. Cotsworth's plan for a thirteen months year and realizing their advantages, Sears, Roebuck Company had done away with monthly accounts, and had adopted four-week periods instead. This procedure had also been adopted by many of the United States retailers, he said.

He urged the two clubs to forward a resolution to the Federal government asking it to form an international commission in Canada for the League of Nations' meeting at which calendar reforms was to be discussed.

Rev. Montague W. J. Bruce, president of the Rotary Club, expressed the thanks of the gathering to the speaker, saying the executives of the clubs would, he felt sure, urge the government to form a commission on the matter.

Introducing the speaker, F. B. Fowler, president of the Canadian Club, spoke of Mr. Cotsworth's former associations in Victoria, reminding the gathering of his work on the Civil Service Commission here in 1903.

Because J. E. Richards, of Langford, drove carefully, he was without seeing a constable wave or hear him shout it cost him $10 in City Police Court this morning. He was fined for driving his car across a fire hose in use at a fire in Beacon Hill Park.

Constable N. G. Griffiths said he saved Mr. Richards to stop and then shouted at him, but the latter kept going until he crossed the fire hose and stopped.

"I was looking to my right and did not see either the officer or the hose," said Mr. Richards.

"You could not have been driving very carefully," said the Magistrate. "Fined $10."

Miss Marie Lembourg, of San Francisco, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Grant, 1043 St. Charles Street, with whom their daughter, Mrs. George Standon Way, of San Francisco and her infant son are also spending a long holiday.

CANADA'S BAN ON RUM EXPORTS BRINGS GANG WAR

Smuggling Business in Detroit Succeeded By Fierce Competition

Detroit, Aug. 7.—By a queer quirk of circumstances, a Canadian law that was supposed to help American cities enforce the prohibition amendment turned out to be one of the major elements in plunging Detroit into a bitter gang war.

During the fortnight immediately before its recent recall election Detroit had had eleven gang murders.

These murders, according to an underworld explanation, were largely due to Canada's new law prohibiting the export of liquor to the United States.

That law raised hob with Detroit's gangs.

Like all big city gangs, these mobs drew most of their revenue from the illegal liquor trade. In Detroit that trade was highly systematized. The bulk of the supply came straight across the river. Speed boats brought over cargoes every night. The business was well organized and flourishing.

Then, almost overnight, this business was broken up. Canada put into effect a law requiring any exporter who cleared a cargo of liquor to return to the Dominion authorities his clearance papers duly stamped by the authorities at the foreign port of entry. This, of course, made it impossible for a Canadian to send booze legally to this country as had been possible before. It also made it impossible for the exporters to "short circuit" a cargo—to clear from Windsor ostensibly for Havana, for instance, and land the cargo in Detroit instead.

In brief, it became just as illegal to export liquor from Canada to the United States as it is to bring it into this country.

The gangs at once lost their source of supply. In consequence, a whole series of alley breweries and fly-by-night alky joints sprang up. What had been a well-regulated business became a free-for-all. The killings were one of the by-products.

Before that Detroit had not had a great deal of open gang trouble. Until early this year the city was fairly well divided into two territories, east side and west side. Woodward Avenue was the dividing line, and the east side mob, under the leadership of an Italian who had ruled for nearly a decade, was the dominant one. This Italian settled most gangland disputes without having to use guns. There were few attempts by either side to "muscle in" on the territory of the other, and gang murders were relatively scarce.

But this Italian died early this year, and shortly after his death came the new Canadian export law. Disorder

ANOTHER "MIKE" SEES LINDY

Many a microphone has stood up for Lindy, while he addressed crowds before him. But for the first time, on August 6, will the great Colonel Lindbergh face a studio mike of the kind shown below. It will be the mike of the Columbia Broadcasting System. Through it he will address a world-wide audience on "International Aviation" first at 3 o'clock, E.S.T., over a short wave hook-up from WJAE, and then at 9 o'clock, E.S.T., over the full CBS network.

followed, bringing the series of killings that alarmed the town and contributed materially to the defeat of Mayor Charles Bowles in the recall election.

Detroit's Purple Gang, which has been widely publicized during the last two years, is pretty well broken up now, according to underworld stories. In fact, the Purple Gang was never one of the dominant mobs here. Its members were mostly young men, and its activities were confined to various forms of "muscle work." It never held a key position in the booze racket.

Police Commissioner Thomas Wilcox confirms this.

"I helped break up the Purple Gang while I was with the federal men," he stated. "I got Louie Fleisher, the first of that gang to go to prison, for theft of an interstate shipment, and he was sent to prison for 10 years. We put four more away for liquor law violations, and then we sent up two more for theft of an interstate shipment."

Fleisher stuck up a truck load of rubber that was bound for a Detroit auto plant. He got the truck and trailer and $3,700 worth of rubber. We restored the goods and got Fleisher the maximum sentence.

"The kidnapping ring that was active here is pretty well broken up, too. There were nine men in it, and all but two or three are in prison."

It is hard to learn just who the gang leaders here are now. One, Chester LeMare, is said to have exercised a good deal of power for some time, but the law recently got on his trail and he has drifted away. A set of Italian brothers are also said to be highly influential in gang circles.

Mother's Experience

Little Joyce Taylor's mother writes: "The first three months of her life Joyce had a hard time finding a suitable food. Nothing seemed to agree with her. Then we put her on Eagle Brand and from her very first feed she came right along. I went by the directions on the can. Now at 13 months she is a sweet, happy child in perfect health all the time."

And from Saint John, N.B.

Mrs. Gourley writes:

"One after another different foods were tried for our baby, but Una couldn't digest them. At birth she weighed 14 lbs. but she dropped to 10 lbs. at 3 months. Then we tried Eagle Brand and she began to thrive almost immediately. At 2½ years she weighed 40 lbs."

Most babies show normal progress. That is quite natural. If your baby is not steadily gaining consult your doctor. If it is a food problem, we suggest that you and your doctor consider Eagle Brand. For bottle-fed babies, Eagle Brand has been the standby of mothers for three generations. It is especially valuable in difficult feeding cases, being such a safe food—pure, uniform, easily digested. You will be pleased to see your baby begin to thrive immediately when placed on a carefully prepared Eagle Brand diet. It is highly endorsed by doctors and nurses.

Doll certainly put over an "ace"

"My goodness," thought Doll, as she told down her tennis racket, "I never dreamed it was so late, and Frank is so fuzzy about his evening meal... Ah! I know what I'll serve!"

She took a tin of Clark's Pork and Beans and emptied the contents into a Pyrex dish. Then she popped the dish into the oven until the beans became heated through.

Next she poached some eggs... made some toast and tea. Then she took the beans out of the oven and put a generous helping on each plate and dropped a couple of eggs on top of the beans.

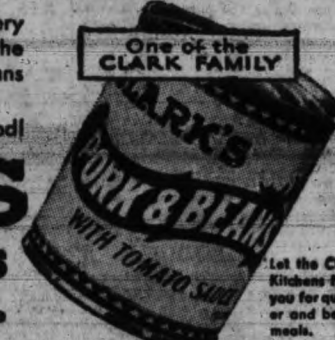

And didn't those beans look tempting!... neither mushy nor broken, and smothered with luscious tomato sauce... what man could resist such a meal (certainly Frank didn't!).

You may walk into practically every grocery store in Canada—from the largest to the smallest... and find Clark's Pork and Beans on the grocer's shelves.

... they MUST be good!

WHITNEY LETTER

(By Branson, Brown & Co. Limited)

New York, Aug. 7.—Whitney of Wall Street Financial Bureau says to-day: EXPECT RALLY TO-DAY

"In the prediction for the market, which called for minor dips before higher prices, think that what we have seen Tuesday and Wednesday constitutes about sufficient to clean up the portion calling for dips, and that with this completion of recession the second portion, calling for higher prices, will begin to show fulfillment before to-day is very old."

"A good many stocks closed yesterday at prices considerably below recent tops, but the important thing to bear in mind is that these prices do not violate the points at which the market received its last support about a week ago, when a recession similar to that we have seen in the last two days brought prices down to where strong buying was encountered. It is, moreover, perfectly possible that the carryover of yesterday's decline will be felt in to-day's session to the extent of about one hour's time and about a point in extent generally throughout the day."

"With this moderate extension of yesterday's sell-off, we will undoubtedly again encounter the type of accumulation which has been present in the market for many weeks, and which while it is thoroughly unwilling to follow prices up, is invariably quick to appear in the form of buying orders just a little higher than appeared the previous time."

"This simply leaves us in about the same type of market we have been in for weeks, this being a market in which extremely low activity and narrowness of movement has, in combination with a dearth of favorable news, practically prohibited making the statement of whether we were in an up-trend or down-trend. The answer is, just as it has been during these past weeks, that we are in neither, but the outlook has been that when we did enter a phase of decided trend it would be on the upside."

"At the present we have worked off a good deal of the time which you have continuously been told you would have to go through so that to-day we are just that much nearer to the point of actual advance. To attempt to name a particular day on which the move will start is obviously ridiculous, but I thoroughly believe that this time element has narrowed down to where we are not more than a week or ten days from seeing a lively revival of the old-fashioned type of advance that you can really make some money in."

"In the meantime, continue to believe that such weak spots as yesterday's close, or possibly the first hour to-day, represent the time and place to do some accumulation on your own account of such stocks as have been pointed out here recently."

The Dancing Floor

By JOHN BUCHAN

Before we rounded Cape Sunium we got into foul weather, a heavy north-easter and violent squalls of rain. Our ruffians were all sea-sick and lay about like logs, getting well cured by the Italian sailors, while Maria and I, in the one frowny little cabin, tried to make a plan of campaign. I found out at once the Maria was well informed about the situation in Plakos, partly from Krtzberger and partly from his own knowledge. He knew about Shelley Arabin's career, which seemed to be common talk of the Aegean. Of Kora he had nothing save from Krtzberger, but he had much to tell me of Plakos and its people. They had a name for backwardness and turbulence, and the Government seemed to leave them very much to themselves. There were gendarmes, of course, in the island, but he fancied they didn't function. But the place had sent good soldiers to Venizelos, and its people were true Hellenes. After an interval when he expatiated on that Hellenic empire of the islands, which was the dream of good Venizelists, he returned to their superstition. "That is the curse of my countrymen," he cried. "They are priest-ridden." He was himself, for he told me, a free-thinker and despised all mumbo-jumbo.

I told him that the trouble was not with the priests, but he did not seem to understand, and I did not attempt to explain.

Our task, as we saw it, was straightforward enough—to protect the House during the Easter season when fear of the girl as a witch and the memory of Shelley's misdeeds might induce some act of violence. There was also the trouble with the hill folk, and this seemed to him the greater danger. The dwellers in the stony mountains which filled the centre and south of the island had always been out of hand, and since the winter had been cruel and the harvest had failed, the whole earth, he thought it likely that they might have a try at looting the House, which they no doubt held to be full of treasure, since the Arabin had a name for wealth. I could see that he didn't quite believe in danger from the coast folk, however, but their superstitions might be. He had the Greek respect for a mountaineer and contempt for the ordinary peasant.

We studied the map—a very good one prepared for the British Navy—and on Maria's advice I decided to begin by dividing our force. My first business was to get into the House and discover how things were going. But with danger threatening from the hills it would be unwise for all of us to concentrate in a place from which egress might be difficult. Now the House stood at the northwest corner of the island, and the hill country began about ten miles to the south-east. He proposed to send five of our men, under Corporal Janni, to a little port called Vano on the west coast, some miles south of the House. They would take supplies with them—we were well provided with these—and reconnoitre towards the hills, giving out that they were a Government sur-had somehow missed the causeway. But, as I hesitated, there came one of those sudden clearings in the air which happen on the densest fogs, and I had a prospect of some hundreds of yards around me. We were on the edge of a village, the cottage we had reached was at the extreme seaward end, a little detached from the rest; beyond lay what seemed to be a shallow bay with no sign of the House and its embattled hill.

It would have been well for us if, there and then, we had turned and gone back to the jetty, even at the risk of relinquishing our supplies and having to scramble for miles along a difficult shore. For, of course, we had come in that infernal fog to the wrong place. The skipper had landed us at Kynaetho instead of below the House, and though I knew from the map that Kynaetho was at the House's gates, yet it was on the east side, distant at least two miles by coast from the spot which Vernon and I had visited.

It was Maria who decided me. The cottage seemed a solitary place where discreet inquiries might be made without rousing attention. He had little stomach for wandering around Plakos in fog, and we had our five men, and the baggage to think of. I followed him into the rough courtyard, paved with cobbles, and strewn with refuse. The low walls were washed with ochre and above the lintel a great black pentacle was painted. Also over the door was hung a bunch of garlic.

There was a woman standing in the entry watching us. Maria took off his hat with a flourish, and poured out a torrent of soughing dialect. She replied in a harsher accent, speaking with the back of her throat. She seemed to be inviting us to enter, but her face was curiously without expression, though her eyebrows worked restlessly. She had the thin, pale, woman, her features were regular, and she had large, prominent, vacant black eyes. She was not in the least repulsive, but somehow she was not reassuring.

As we entered the cottage she called out to some one at the back. A second later I heard footsteps as of a child running.

Maria, as I learned afterwards, told her the story we had agreed on—that we were a Government survey party sent from Athens to make a map of the island. Then he felt his way to more delicate subjects. This was Kynaetho, he understood. There was a large house near which belonged to some foreigners? English, weren't they? Where, exactly, did it lie from the village, for, if he might venture to explain what manner of people, one must have a starting-point for a survey, and the Government had chosen that house?

The woman's eyebrows twitched, and she crossed herself. She flung a hand over her left shoulder. "The place is there," she said. "I know nothing of it. I do not speak of it."

All the time she was looking at us with her empty eyes, and I realized that she was in an extreme fright. There was certainly nothing in our appearance to discompose her, but she had the uneasy feeling which one has in the presence of a human being who is suffering from an emotion that one cannot fathom. Maria whispered to me that he did not like the looks of things. "She has not offered us food," he said.

Our ear must have caught some sound from out of doors, for her face suddenly showed relief. She walked to the window and cried to some one outside. Then she turned to us. "There are men now to speak with you," she said. "I have an invitation to Saint Nicolas. Also she gripped Maria violently by the shoulder and spat words into his ear. He told me afterwards that she was advising him not to be a fool and to go home.

The little courtyard had filled with people, most of them men, but with two or three old crones in the foreground. The aspect was not threatening, but rather puzzled and timid. The men took off their hats in response to Maria's bow, and politely waited for him to speak. I noticed that they were a well-mixed, upstanding lot, but with the same flat expressionless as the woman of the cottage, and I guessed that that was a mask to hide fear.

Maria told them the same story of our errand. He said—I repeat what he told me later—that our men and baggage were sent down by the beach, and that he wanted to be directed to the inn. There was dead silence. The little crowd stared at us as if their lives depended on it, but not a syllable came to reply.

This made Maria angry. "Are you dumb mules," he asked, "not to answer a simple question? I have heard that you of the island boasted of your hospitality. Is this the way to treat strangers?"

Still no answer. His taunts were as tuttle as his exposition. But, since I had nothing to do but to look on, I saw something which made me uneasy. The crowd was drawing together, and each was covertly touching the other's sleeve. There was a purpose in this mob, a purpose of action, and I don't like that kind of purpose, when it is accompanied by fear.

BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggily and the Crying School

(Copyright, 1930)

By HOWARD R. GARIS

Uncle Wiggily was very fond of going to the Hollow Stump School where the Lady Mouse Teacher taught the classes of animal children. Not that the old rabbit gentleman recited any lessons to Miss Mouse. No, indeed! He was long past the age of going to school.

"But I shall go on to learn," Uncle Wiggily said many a time with a funny little twinkle of his pink nose. "One is never too old to learn and even after all these years I am learning that I am still able to learn something. I certainly like the Lady Mouse Teacher and the Hollow Stump where she teaches."

For that reason Mr. Longears often used to visit the school where the animal boys and girls learned the many things which are useful for puppy dogs, pussy cats, squirrels, rabbits and cute little pigs to learn. Often Uncle Wiggily would listen to the children recite or he would watch while Miss Mouse played the tin pan chess game for them to sing. And at times Uncle Wiggily might tell a little story for the children.

One fine morning Uncle Wiggily came strolling down the stair banister, calling in his hollow stump bungalow and landed on the floor with a bump which made Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzey squawk.

"What's your hurry?" said Uncle Wiggily.

"I'm going to school!" said Uncle Wiggily.

"Oh, Lady Mouse!" cried Uncle Wiggily.

"Nonsense! This is vacation!"

chuckled the muskrat lady housekeeper, for she knew very well that

Wiggily went to school when there was any.

"That's so!" exclaimed Mr. Longears.

"I'd forgot that this was vacation."

The old regular school now and Miss Mouse has no summer classes.

Well, I think I'll take a hop past the Hollow Stump School anyhow to see how it looks.

So a little later the rabbit gentleman, taking his pink, twinkling nose

with him, hopped past the Hollow

Stump School, which was now closed for the summer.

"How sad and lonesome it looks!"

murmured the rabbit gentleman as he stopped hopping in front of the big, hollow stump which had windows and doors and a chimney and everything a school should have.

"It makes me sad," went on Uncle

Wiggily, "How lonely the school looks when the animal boys and girls are not running around it playing lollypop tag and ice-cream pops and rollers. So I must go in and see not get to feeling this way. But I must jolly. I will just take a hop around the closed school and then I'll go home and have a good dinner.

Giving another look at the closed door of the Hollow Stump School, which would not open until September, Mr.

Longears started to hop around to look at it from all sides, though he knew the place almost as well as he knew his own hollow stump bungalow.

"All of a sudden Mr. Longears, having reached the back of the school,

came to a stop and looked and looked again at some of the windows. Then the jolly old rabbit gentleman rubbed his eyes and twinkled his pink nose and looked a third time.

"I wonder," he said softly, "I wonder if I can believe what I can see? Why does my rubber boots, the school seems to be crying? Why really, there are a lot of tears on these windows

as surely as my name is Mr. Longears!

And yet how can it be? A crying school? I never heard of such a thing!"

Nor did you, I venture to say, nor did I and I never would have believed it if Uncle Wiggily had not told me.

And yet there stood the old rabbit gentleman looking at the school windows and down the glass panes water was running like great fat drops.

"The Hollow Stump School is crying!"

murmured Uncle Wiggily. "Yes, the windows are crying real tears, as if they were eyes, and I know why. The school is lonesome because the animal boys and girls are not here. I must go on this long vacation that it is weeping.

I must go and tell Lady Mouse Teacher

What Is There to Make a Woman Glad in Marriage? Does the Violet or the Butterfly Make Better Wife? Why American Women Slouch

DEAR MISS DIX—What is there in marriage to keep a woman glad? A man grooms himself every morning, takes his leisurely bath and shaves and steps out and away from the mess of dirty dishes, crying children and disorderly house. Even if he does have business problems, they at least offer a change from the thing he walks away from every morning. With a woman it is the everlasting grind of work, with house and children, day in and day out with nothing to break the strain. She can't even take a vacation alone, for she can't leave the children when they are babies. A man may have a hundred diversions where she may have none. Yet she is expected to keep her husband glad that he married her, and honored her by allowing her to slave her life away for less than a maid's wages. Did it ever occur to you that many a woman is so broken down through hard work, and childbearing and attempting to make ends meet that she doesn't give a hang whether her husband is glad that he married her or not?

So I ask you, what is there to make a woman glad in marriage?

MRS. M.
ANSWER: There isn't much in life to make any of us glad, Mrs. M. If we think only of its hardships. In most of our lots there are more kicks than half-pence. There is sorrow and sickness and work and worry and anxiety for us all.

And especially is the road of the poor woman a hard one to travel. Her work is the kind that is never done and it has the discouragement of showing no spectacular results. She cannot point to her book as a writer can, or her statue as a sculptor can, or her prosperous business and say, "I did this. This is what I have achieved by my labor."

She spends her days and strength in cooking meals that are eaten and forgotten; in sweeping floors that must be swept again; in washing little faces that must be washed over again the next hour; in feeding babies that are always hungry, in doing over and over again the million monotonous tasks that go into making a home and rearing a family.

And very rarely does she get the pay that would make it all worth while, the reward that would give her tasks and set her labor to music. Every girl who marries a poor boy thinks that whatever the hardships of her lot may be they will be compensated for by the love and tenderness of the man she marries. She knows that their food may be only bread and cheese, but she thinks that their kissing lips will turn it into ambrosia. She knows she will have to wear shabby clothes, but she believes that her husband will throw around her the royal cloak of his tenderness and his understanding, so that her shabbiness will be hidden even from her own eyes.

But, alas, the poor husband, no more than the rich husband, proves to be a Prince Charming. Often when he feels the burden of a family's support pressed heavily upon him, he regrets his marriage and he takes no trouble to hide from his wife the fact that he considers her and the children millstones around his neck. Often he, too, works beyond his strength and is nervous and peevish and hard to get along with.

Perhaps there isn't so much to be glad about in the outward circumstances of any marriage that is filled with hard work and poverty and in which there is not enough money to buy the softnesses and pleasures that pad the angles of life. But, thank God, not everything has a price tag on it and the poorest young husband and wife can be glad they married each other if they have love and companionship.

And, after all, we get out of marriage what we put into it, and we make a success or a failure, bad or sad, as we will.

A woman can be glad she married the man she did because she would rather have him than anything else in the world. She can be glad that she can cook and clean and make him a comfortable home because she cares enough for him to enjoy ministering to him. She can be glad to pinch pennies for him because it helps to build up his fortune.

And she can be glad that she has children and get more thrill out of the feel of her babies' arms around her neck than she would out of a matched pearl necklace. She can be glad to keep them clean and well fed and know that she is building up strong little bodies and that she is giving to them attention that no millionaire's child has who is nursed by hired hands.

So you see, dear Mrs. M., whether housework is slavery or an interesting occupation, and whether husband and children are a bore, or the most worthwhile career in the world, depends upon your point of view. We have to make our gladness in this world and we best do it by being good sports and taking the hardships of life with a grin instead of sitting down and bemoaning our fates.

DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR MISS DIX—Which do you think would make the better wife, the girl who has good times while young, and who has gone about with boys, or the girl whose parents have been so strict with her that she has never been allowed to go to parties and who has never had any attention from young men?

L. N. A.

ANSWER: Other things being equal, if I were a man I would always choose for a wife the girl who has been popular with men. There are many reasons why she is a safer matrimonial bet than a girl who has never had any attention from boys.

For one thing, she is generally a better judge of what she wants in a husband than the girl who jumps at her first opportunity. She has looked them over, and is a connoisseur in men, so to speak, so she picks out something to suit her taste and which she is pretty sure still to like after he gets it home.

Then she knows how to handle men. She has had experience and she knows how to jolly them along and dodge the angles in their dispositions and when to turn a blind eye on their faults.

But, best of all, she is ready to settle down. She has had her fling. She is tired of dancing and running around, and her home looks better to her than a night club.

The most domestic women are not the home-staying girls, who are fed up on evenings around the drop-light and with cooking and being mother's helper. They are the girls who have been in business or society, and to whom a home of their own is a novelty.

The girl who has never been anywhere wants to step out after she is married. It is the girl who has been everywhere who wants to stay put after she is married and who gets a greater kick out of her own home and her husband and baby than she does out of any jass palace. Furthermore, it is the girls who have had plenty of love-making before marriage who are satisfied with the affections of their husbands. It is the women who have never had any admiration from men who are so starved for flattery that they indulge in flirtations after marriage.

And all of this is perfectly natural because it is the thing we have never had that we crave most.

DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR MISS DIX—Will you please tell us why the American girls and women stand like old fagged-out horses? I mean the way they slouch down on one leg with one hip dropped down like they are exhausted and worn out? Is it because of some unconscious form of modesty or just because they are lazy?

J.W.D.

ANSWER: No, son, it is neither a mental nor a physical affliction. It is because they think they look picturesque and they are imitating the poses in the fashion advertisements.

It is considered chic to look as if you were in the last stages of T.B. and had malformation of the hip joints, and that is why women exhibit themselves in this lachrymose attitude.

Wall Street Financial Houses State Views On Outlook

New York, Aug. 7.—Consensus of opinions of leading financial houses in Wall Street has been compiled over the week-end as follows:

Anderson & Fox—Business is scraping bottom and so are commodity prices. There has been a growth of confidence and improvements in sentiment which must accompany a recovery. We are bullish for the long pull. Bear, Cohen & Co.—Trading largely has been professional on both sides of the market. We would like to see the market advance and brokers' loans continue to decline, because that would indicate that the right people are buying the market.

Babcock, Runtion & Co.—We expect the market to work higher and would use small orders to purchase the active trading issues. Bear & Co.—Although accepted indices do not as yet show any real turn in the main trend of business, there are a large number of more or less tangible evidences of business recovery. Seasonally it is natural for business to show a pick-up by the end of August and we think we can sense this turn somewhat ahead of the customary seasonal period.

Benjamin Hill & Co.—We are of the opinion that when the public begins to realize the actual situation in business, which is now on a practically solid-out basis, psychology will change. And that is our explanation of our optimism which we believe will justify the purchase of stocks at the levels for the long pull.

Chisholm & Chapman—Industrial production admittedly is at low ebb, but economic observers find reason to believe that the bottom has been touched and that from now on the curve should rise. Steel output, for instance, fell below 60 per cent of capacity and the average for July will probably be at about that rate.

Clark, Childs & Co.—It would occasion no surprise if the market accomplished little or nothing in the near future while recent gains are being consolidated, but the real trend is upward.

D. M. Collins & Co.—There is no doubt that a great many dividend-paying stocks have been very much overvalued and we believe that these stocks may well sell at higher levels than they are now. We believe this upward move will take place prior to the seasonal recovery in business.

Clark, Dodge & Co.—For the longer term we would count on an attitude of thoughtful skepticism as to whether in the coming decade the "blue chips" stocks will again have the most profitable group as they have in the last ten years.

Dyer, Hudson & Co.—The comparison between the fluctuations of general business activity and the average price of industrial stocks shows that only depression or recession since 1900 did industrial stock prices reach their most depressed point after prices had begun to recover, namely, 1921. When the volume of business operations fell to its low point in July, while the average price of industrial continued to recede until August.

Emmett & Co.—We suggest that trading commitments entered into on our buying recommendations of Thursday and Friday be stopped one point below Friday's low price. Fenner & Beane—There is little doubt that last week's advance more accurately reflected crowd activities for the rise. Indications favor the expectation that such activities will be resumed.

Goodrich & Co.—We lean to the opinion that the business recovery may be more rapid than many now believe. But, in any event, the ensuing months should be used to accumulate good common stocks.

Hammerstein, Bors & Co.—We would adhere to our policy of buying intrinsic values at unpopular discounts rather than paying popularity premiums for market leaders.

Hardy & Co.—We suggest that traders stay out of the market and keep an open mind.

Harris & Vose—Apparently the ranks of the optimists have enlisted the aid of industrial market interests, and their support and backing of buying power may result in holdings or battering the present level of prices.

H. Hents & Co.—The market is now in a position to stage a more extensive and more extended recovery and we advise the purchase of securities in anticipation of this development.

E. F. Huston & Co.—We see little reason for anything much to happen in the market except such fluctuations as might occur due to technical influences.

Jackson Bros., Rosel & Co.—Professional raising tactics will doubtless continue to be used as there is no visible improvement in business, but we look for no important liquidation to accompany this selling.

F. R. Keesh & Co.—A curious situation has developed in Wall Street circles. Speculation is reduced to such a minimum that the stock market is no guide to its own followers or to the public.

Lamborn, Hutchins & Co.—We are not taking either a long-pull bullish or bearish position, because we view the present situation as purely a trading matter for the time being, and under such conditions a sharp advance, has already been recorded.

Love, Strout & Co.—It requires almost trading to scalp profits in a market of this type, but we believe purchasers of Indian stocks who utilize minor recessions in the early part of this week will be rewarded in the not too distant future.

Peter P. McDermott & Co.—As no tangible evidence of business improvements has become available within the past four weeks it would seem that the purchaser of securities at present prices assumes the risk of technical reactions.

M. J. Meehan & Co.—The immediate trend appears to be upward.

John Melcher & Co.—We still adhere to our previously explained policy of buying the leading issues on an upward trend.

Moody & Co.—The increasing optimism and bullishness prevalent among traders seems to be nothing more or less than an attempt to "talk" stocks up to higher prices.

Neuberger, Henderson & Loh—The bottom has been reached, as a matter of fact, is well defined as to warrant the belief that the time has arrived when it would seem reasonable to expect a recovery in the market.

Otis & Co.—Probably a clearer range will develop here, as a base is not yet developed.

Palmer & Co.—There is no change in the general outlook, which indicates that some further advance in the upside is probable.

Louis Stern & Co.—Long-pull holdings should be maintained despite the easing off of stock prices for which price will be recorded before the week-end has come.

Theodore Prince & Co.—Nervous short covering aided by real buying, proved to be the market on Saturday. It is our belief, however, that it would be considerable effort to push the market higher.

Reinhardt & Bennett—It is our belief that the month of August may very likely usher in more active constructive trading.

Charles E. Smith & Co.—Earnings for the first half of 1930 are not as bad as the pessimists predicted. Many leading industrial firms have made unexpectedly good showings, even in comparison with last year's phenomenal prosperity.

F. L. Salmon & Co.—Growing indications of a substantial business improvement in the fall together with a strong technical market position support our opinion that sound stocks should be bought on all technical reactions.

Stein, Alstern & Co.—We believe the trend is upward and purchases of stocks around these levels will show good profits in the near future, and, furthermore, that purchases now of good stocks involve a minimum of risk.

Stein Bros. & Boyce—We would hold on to long stock bought for investment. Few qualities yield as high a return in successful investing and trading as patience.

Kirk & Kirk—Adventurers indicate that bull interests have about succeeded in stabilizing the stock market and are in position to advance individual issues from time to time.

Tucker & Co.—Some further irregularities in a trading range between 230 and 240 for the industrial average will probably be encountered before the business situation produces an encouragement to lift stock prices appreciably above their recent highs.

C. H. Van Buren & Co.—The manner in which the list rallied after its stubborn resistance to selling pressure was convincing to those who look for a betterment in the near future.

Wade Bros. & Co.—We would buy good stocks on dips. Maximum profit will be made on well-spread stocks which have a clear background.

Clark, Williams & Co.—The investment business which has taken place and which continues is undoubtedly creating a foundation for a major upswing of security values.

Woodworth, Lounsbury & Co.—The market is obviously in a long-pull buying range, but we feel that there is still a fair possibility that most of the leading issues may again be available within the vicinity of the lows of last June.

W. J. Wellman & Co.—We still feel that it is a waiting market except for the high-class stocks, which should be a purchase to be put away for a pull.

Wynn Bros. & Co.—A noteworthy incident in the financial world in the past week has been the adoption of a bullish attitude by most market prognosticators.

French Morocco Scene of Story AT THE DOMINION

Motion picture fans who love the exotic in scene and action, who prefer to watch the age old drama of desire and attainment played against colorful and picturesque backgrounds, are strongly advised to go to the Dominion Theatre, where J. Harold Murray and Fifi Dorsay move rapidly through the stirring events of "Women Everywhere," a fast moving story of French Morocco and the Foreign Legion, directed by Alexander Korda.

The decks of a tramp steamer in the rum trade; the streets of a Moroccan city, fascinating with the lure of the Orient; a desert fort of the Foreign Legion; a cafe music hall frequented by Legionnaires, Spanish, Arabs, sailors and a motley crowd of assorted civilians—these are some of the backgrounds against which the all-talking and singing Fox Movietone drama is enacted.

"Murray, who will be remembered as the star of the Broadway musical comedy, "Rio Rita," and more recently as the hero of "Married in Hollywood," gives an excellent and convincing performance as the sea captain, arrested for gun running, who falls in love with the girl who saves his life. That girl, of course, is the charming and piquant Fifi Dorsay, who plays the part of a cafe entertainer—and in so doing passes along some altogether effective entertainment to the audience.

More than 20,000 pounds of black powder and six tons of dynamite were used to give the effect of shell fire and mine explosions. Six thousand bombs were planted and exploded on the battlefield covering twenty acres of land on the Irvine ranch, near Los Angeles.

Five hundred shells of various sizes were sent screaming and whistling through the air, actually fired from guns, to give the proper sound effect of shells in flight. These shells, of course, were fired far over the heads of the soldiers participating in the scenes. The effect of landing and bursting shells was gained by planted bombs exploded by electricity at the proper moment.

Last year lightning had similarly stripped a tree eighteen yards north, in front of No. 213.

In each case, strangely enough, the bolt struck about eighteen or twenty feet from the top of the tree, and in each case tore a narrow section out of the northwest side of the trunk, carrying one or two branches with it.

Madrid, Aug. 7.—Belated dispatches from the Spanish town of Albox, between Murcia and Almeria, on the Mediterranean, report a strong earthquake at 4 o'clock yesterday morning. Some houses were damaged and the people ran into the streets in panic stricken, but nobody was injured.

Murcia is a city of about 100,000 population, in a valley lying between Great Píraene. It is an ancient Moorish capital. Almeria is a strongly fortified port of about 50,000 population.

Lightning Hits Tree Near Tree Formerly Struck

Saskatoon, Sask., Aug. 7.—Lightning may never strike in the same place twice, but two popular trees on the west side of Seventh Avenue here stand to testify that it can strike very near the same place two years running.
